DAVIDSON COLLEGE
DAVIDSON, N.C.

FOREWORD

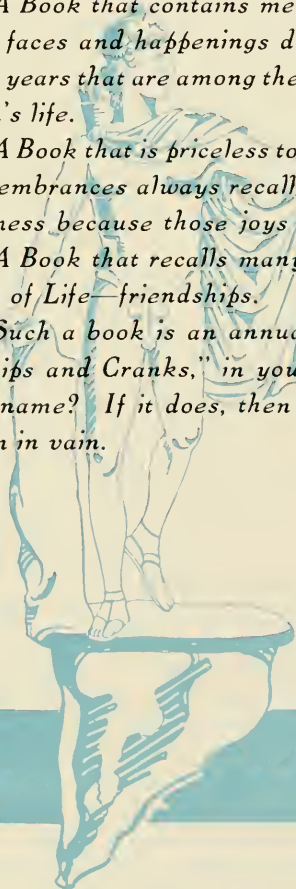

A Book.

A Book that contains memory-laden scenes and faces and happenings during one of those four years that are among the happiest of mortal man's life.

A Book that is priceless to one whose college remembrances always recall joys mingled with sadness because those joys are no more.

A Book that recalls many of those greatest gifts of Life—friendships.

Such a book is an annual. Does the 1925 "Quips and Cranks," in your judgment, merit the name? If it does, then our work has not been in vain.

DEDICATION

Student, Philosopher, Friend. These words well characterize the man to whom the 1925 "Quips and Cranks" is dedicated. He has been a servant, in the highest sense of the word, of the college for years gone by, and the stream of men constantly flowing from Davidson has carried with it a love of learning, a splendid philosophy and a true value of friendship induced by the personality of Dr. Mark Edgar Sentelle.

Peter Stuart Ney and the Davidson Seal

THE symbolism and originality of the Davidson College seal has brought forth commendations wherever it is seen for the first time. It is full of weaving and lacks that shallowness which characterizes the seal of many institutions. Not only is the seal in itself a thing of interest, but the legend that persists as to its origin is one that gives it a historical as well as sentimental value, for the legend claims as the author that leader of Napoleon's forces and a greater general than even the Corsican himself—Marshal Ney. About the year 1840 the trustees of Davidson College appointed a committee to draw up a design for the college seal. The committee, being unable to agree on any design, agreed to call upon a gentleman noted throughout this entire sector for his scholarship. They found him teaching school about eight or ten miles from Davidson. The committee rode up to the schoolhouse at the hour for recess and found the teacher at the spring. When he was informed of the business of the committee he at once drew on a piece of paper with a pencil the well-known design. An expert in heraldry has interpreted the seal as follows:

"There is the morning star with its full rays, and shining therefrom, the radiating light fills the upper part of the circular field. The motto may be translated—Light is nourished where liberty has arisen.' The bar on which is written the Latin motto, 'Ne Ultra,' passes entirely across the field and separates the upper from the lower part. The upper part is filled with light, and the hand grasping the sword is illumined by the same. In the lower part is the rattlesnake transfixed by the sword and representing superstition, ignorance and sin. The particular form of your seal intends to separate the light of learning and religion, and the baneful influences of ignorance and unbelief. The seal, in short, is a sort of picturing of the heaven powers and the hades powers, with the interposed horizon, beyond which the evil shall not come."

Such is the interpretation given the seal. However, there is no authority on the identity of its author other than the fact that he was Peter Stuart Ney, and in the conjectures as to whether he was Napoleon's marshal or not lies the fascination.

There are many assertions that he was, and there is much evidence given by people in this community that certainly tend to prove it. It has been asked why P. S. Ney tried to conceal his identity in America. The reason is obvious, as he himself said that some of the most prominent officials and highest families in France aided in his escape and for their safety his escape must be concealed. We cannot here go into details, but there are several statements that have almost the weight of authority.

Hon. R. A. Henderson, an attorney at law in Kansas, is an Englishman by birth. He said that his grandfather served with Wellington and was present when Ney was ordered to be executed and witnessed the pseudo-execution. He has often heard the old gentleman say positively that Ney was not shot—that he knew the whole affair was a fake.

On this point the St. Louis Republic of 1891 gives a bit of interesting information. It states that during the reign of Louis Phillipe, Mr. G. H. C. Melady, of St. Louis, spent several weeks in Paris. Some years before this, while the king was in exile, he had been shown many courtesies by Mr. Melady in St. Louis. It was now the king's turn to extend many tokens of friendship. In the course of a confidential conversation during the visit Mr. Melady asked Louis Phillipe the question: "Is it true that Marshal Ney was shot?" The king replied: "Mr. Melady, I know the fact that you are one of the highest Masons in America. I am known as one of the most exalted Masons in Europe. Marshal Ney held a position among Masons equal to that of either of us. The prisons were full of men condemned to be shot. Some other man may have filled the grave intended for Marshal Ney." Mr. Melady replied very quietly: "May it please Your Majesty, Marshal Ney was not shot."

Records that would have proven whether Marshal Ney lived here or not have been destroyed, and to us is left only the pleasure of realizing that it is possible—even probable—that Napoleon's marshal designed our seal.

The Faculty

ON PAGE 125 of the Davidson College catalogue will be found the following: "It is not too much to say that the student body at Davidson is unique among the institutions of learning." The paragraph then goes on to say that the student body is representative of the best to be had in culture, sobriety, and purity. Of course credit must be given to home training and hereditary instincts, but we believe that the staunch character maintained by the student body is due primarily to the influence of the Davidson College faculty.

This group of men is certainly representative of the criteria of purity, sobriety, and above all, Christian character. Every man on the faculty is a professed Christian, and a practical one. If there is a sermon to be delivered, a prayer to be offered, an appeal to be raised in the name of the Master, any member of the faculty can be relied on to do his part.

Not only are these men staunch Christians, but they are the one college group that has not allowed the extreme views of the so-called modernists to undermine the more sane ideas that they have. Do not make the mistake that a great number of people do and think that the faculty is "narrow" and too conservative. It is only sane. The students are given the same broad views at Davidson that any other students are given, but in a more sane manner and in smaller doses that do not tend to cause any up-settings of a man's ideals or his religious convictions. Rather, they will be greatly strengthened and clarified by the influence of this sane teaching.

Seven of the members of the faculty did their graduate work at the Johns Hopkins University, three at Yale, three at University of Virginia, one at Maryland, one at Leipsic; several have done work at Columbia, Cornell, Chicago, Michigan, Princeton, and other large institutions. Fifteen of them received their undergraduate work at Davidson.

Every man is fitted admirably to attend to the duties of his department, for as the fruit is always the test of any plan or institution, a glance over the history of the men who have studied at Davidson will show that the training received at Davidson under this well prepared faculty has brought success in a full measure.

It is not only in the classroom that the faculty is interested, but in every movement undertaken by the students. All the organizations on the campus have their faculty advisers and counsellors. Athletic policies are made a success through the men of the faculty. Fraternities and literary societies have their being through the faculty.

History of the Class of '25

HE Class of 1925 came to one Davidson; it leaves another Davidson, larger and finer than the first. Truly the four years, during which the members of this class have climbed from the verdancy of Freshmanhood to the wisdom and seriousness of a Senior year, have been years of transition.

When two hundred and four prospective Freshmen stepped off the "Jaybirdsville Special" four years ago, they found a student body of five hundred men. The old Chambers was the center of college activity; athletic prospects were not bright; hazing was the order of the day; the old athletic field was in need of repair; three small dormitories stood in a row; Main street was deep in mud and dust; the college publications were in debt, and many said that the famous old Wildecats spirit was dying out.

Four swift, full years have rolled by and the Class of '25 has seen the advent of the new Davidson. The eighty-one members of the class who graduate leave a student body of over six hundred men; the new Chambers, in process of construction; athletic prospects, under the able leadership of Coaches Younger, Rawson, and Tilson were never brighter; hazing is abandoned forever; the new Richardson athletic field is one of the handsomest in the entire South; three large, modern dormitories are added to the college; the Davidson College highway replaces the old Main Street; college publications are cleared of their debt, and the old Wildecats spirit is awakening to a new day of greater achievements than ever before.

During this period of growth, has the Class of '25 made any distinctive contribution? The question is a hard one. If cherishing of the Davidson spirit in thought and action, hearty support of every college activity, and unselfish service to the college may be called a distinctive contribution, then the Class of '25 has that to lay at the feet of her Alma Mater.

During the four years of her history, the class has been piloted by able leaders. The all-round qualities of "Jim" Hendrix were early recognized, and he was selected as class president for the Freshman year. He was followed by "Mac" Beall, whose able leadership carried the class over the rough bumps of a Sophomore year. Chong Mellwaine, by his sound judgment, carried on the good work for another year, to be succeeded by Julian Briggs, the popular, all-round leader, selected as the final president of the class.

In athletics '25 has given much to the college. One has but to recall the names of "Jim" Hendrix, "Flash" Covington, "Sook" Boggs, and "Popsy" Hunt to revive a spark of football enthusiasm. In basketball the wonderful guarding of All-State Captain Sook, the fast shooting of Staley, and the consistent playing of Beall will be long remembered. All-state third baseman, Captain "Ted" Covington, with his cohorts, Al Simpson and Sam Summers, will come to the mind of every member of '25 whenever baseball is mentioned. Gracey will be remembered as one of the greatest track men of North Carolina, with "Red" McComb and Hendrix following closely. The tennis team for two years has been composed entirely of '25 men, and the grapplers of the wrestling team have claimed two members of the class.

In literary achievement the class has indeed made a distinctive contribution. Each of the publications was handicapped by debt at the beginning of the past year. Due to the splendid work of Mellwaine for the Davidsonian, Lake for the Annual, and Martin for the Magazine, this has been obliterated, and the class will pass on a clean sheet to those who follow. Space forbids more than the mention of literary society work and intercollegiate debating, where many members of the class have excelled.

The high spots in the social life of the class, as a whole, have been the never-to-be-forgotten Soph banquet in Charlotte, the memorable Junior speaking, the Senior smokers, and finally commencement. Through the medium of the Y, M. C. A. the friendship groups, deputation teams, the volunteer and ministerial bands, and the activities of numerous other groups and individuals, much has been accomplished.

There have been successes, but there have also been failures, to be sure. But the real history of the class cannot be so summarily written, for it is the record of the lives and struggles of men, and the greatest pride of the class is the men who are in it.

The greatest chapter of this history is yet to be written—the chapter of life, where, when partings are over, and student days are gone forever, each will have his task to perform. And is it boastful to say that the present bespeaks a future that is bright with the prospect of great lives of achievement and service? But, whatever may betide, every member of the class will forever be a loyal son of Davidson and a loyal son of '25.

SIMRIL FAULKNER BRYANT

"Sim"

NEWNAN, GA.

A.B.I.

Cheer Leader; Georgia Club; Assistant in Greek; Assistants' Club; Ministerial Band.

"Nothing endureth like personal qualities."

"Sim's" pep will be remembered long after he leaves Davidson. As a cheer leader he has never had an equal. This same pep has added a push and lots of vigor to the best teams Davidson has seen in several years. We predict that his pep will take "Sim" pretty high in the professional world.

"He hath a wisdom that doth guide his valor."

"The prettiest third baseman in college ball." How many times have you heard that said about Ted? And his flashing end runs on the gridiron are just as pretty. There is not a man in school but loves Ted, and it is friendships such as his that make it hard to leave the old place.

LOUIS PHILLIP COX

"Phil"

MOBILE, ALA.

B.S.I.

Kappa Alpha; Gamma Sigma Epsilon; Wrestling Team; Fandango; Scrub Football, '23, '24; Winner of the "D"; "D" Club.

"Young in years, but in sage counsel, old."

It took Phil just three years to get his Dip—and that's going some, with football, wrestling, and track on his schedule, and the unfair sex on his mind. The obstacles he will meet in the medical world will not bother Phil, if he tackles them like he has tackled the Davidson curriculum.

Senior Class

JOHN KENNETH CURRIE

"John"

PARKTON, N. C.

B.S.II.

"A loyal, just, and upright gentleman."

John is another of the quiet, unassuming, but diligent members of twenty-five. He has never had to worry about his Dip—he knew he could get it. He is the kind of man whom one admires and respects, and he has but to follow his ideals to make the world sit up and take notice.

"I'll fight till my bones, my flesh be hacked."

It is not often that a man is elected captain of two Davidson teams—but such an honor has "Nappy" acquired. A hard worker and a vicious fighter, he has given many an opponent more than he could handle. We wish "Nappy" every success in life.

"A soul that's full of worth and void of pride."

A versatile man is "Curfew," his accomplishments ranging from military prowess to the Honor Roll. Boys who have visited the infirmary will long remember his cheery words and his thoughtfulness. His maxim of "do it" will take him far when he has left these portals.

PINEVILLE, LA.

B.S.I.

Sigma Upsilon; Gamma Sigma Epsilon; Chemistry Assistant; Espanol Debating Team, '23, '24; Secretary Spanish Club.

"Never over serious, not too frivolous, but a rare good fellow."

The chemistry shark of the school. We expect to see John discover a new element and get in "Who's Who" before he is through. John has a dry humor that never fails to produce a laugh. If he works in after life like he has here, he will be a big success.

"Bid me discourse, and I will enchant thine ear."

This Georgia Cracker has made quite a reputation while at Davidson, covering religious, forensic and academic activities. Furthermore, he is one of the best captains the R. O. T. C. has ever had. With his talents and his personality, "Soc's" future looks bright, indeed.

WILLIAM SIMPSON GLENN, JR.

"Bill"

SPARTANBURG, S. C.

B.S.I.

"Let me silent be."

"Bill" is the Nimrod of the campus and spends every spare moment pursuing the elusive cotton-tail. "Bill" is the fashion plate around these parts, rivaling the Prince of Wales as a connoisseur of clothes. We are confident that "Bill" is going to make good in life.

WILLIAM MINOR GRACEY, JR.

"Bill"

COVINGTON, TENN.

A.B.I.

Varsity Track (three years); Scrub Football; Metrophilian; Secretary, Vice-President, and First Critic Metrophilian; Secretary-Treasurer Senior Class; Pi Kappa Phi; "D" Club; Omicron Delta Kappa.

"I would rather be than seem to be."

"Bill" is the best track man Davidson has ever seen. He does everything from run hurdles to hurl the javelin; and he does 'em all well. His election to captain of the track team was the result of three years of brilliant performance, and was richly deserved. If he hurdles life's problems like he hurdles on the cinder path, the world will take notice.

Senior Class

THOMAS EUGENE GRAY

"Buster"

COLUMBIA, S. C.

A.B.II.

Beta Theta Pi; Class Baseball, '24; South Carolina Club; Spanish Club.

"I hail fellow, well met."

We are deeply indebted to Columbia for sending us this lad. His ready wit and awe-inspiring golf costume are things not easily forgotten. If he can only fight the girls off for a few years, he will put Columbia on the map. Here's luck to you, "Buster."

JAMES ROBY GUDGER

"Jim" is one who has chosen to stay at home for his education, hailing from our college town. He has not only made for himself the name of a soldier, but has won fame in his other studies. He is always cheerful and ready to lend a helping hand, a friend to all on the Hill. There are good things in store for "Jim," and we wish him success.

THOMAS ALEXANDER GUITON

"Tag"

A.B.II.

Druids Club; Metrophilian; Marshal; First Supervisor Metrophilian; International Relations Club; Class Basketball; Track; Volunteer Band; Ministerial Band; President Robeson County Club; Lieutenant R. O. T. C.

"Not over serious, not frivolous, but a rare good fellow."

"Tag" has won warm friendship of all his classmates by his quiet and unassuming manner while he has been at Davidson. In the midst of his varied tasks he has found time to play about on the basketball court and the track. "Tag" has well chosen the ministry for his life work, and we know he will prove worthy of the calling.

Senior Class

JAMES BARTLETT HALL

"Bart"

BELMONT, N. C.

A.B.II.

Gaston County Club; Lieutenant R. O. T. C.; Assistant in Bible.

"Born for success he seemed."

"Bart" has that enviable quality of being able to make friends by the score. There is not a man who knows "Bart" who does not like him. He has but one failing—the opposite sex, for he's a lady killer de luxe. "Bart" is senior member of the firm of Hall, Townsend, and Davis; yet, despite this handicap, he'll make good in life.

JAMES PAISLEY HENDRIX

"Jim"

GREENSBORO, N. C.

B.S.I.

"When nature him began, she meant to show all that might be in a man."

"Jim" is truly one of the big men on the campus, as a glance at his honors will show. From R. O. T. C. to athletics, he has made a name for himself, and the student body has given him the highest of honors—president of the student body. A finer man than "Jim" never graced the campus.

JAMES EUBERT HOLSHOUSER

"Peck"

BLOWING ROCK, N. C.

A.B.II.

Philanthropic; Vice-President Philanthropic, '23-'24; President Philanthropic, '24, '25; Alpha Phi Epsilon; Class Baseball; International Relations Club; English Assistant.

In this fiery-headed lad we have a strange mixture of qualities. He is studious and loves his books, and still you see him nearly every afternoon, small in stature though he may be, demanding attention in campus football, or basketball. "Peck" is well known over the Hill, and as well liked.

Senior Class

FREDERICK ANDERSON HOPKINS

"Hop"

FOUNTAIN INN, S. C.

A.B.

"He who would search for pearls must dive below."

In "Hop" we have a perfect type of the studious student, always ready to delve to any depth to gain knowledge. He has made a name for himself along oratorical lines, debating and speaking at all literary occasions. We can already perceive this South Carolina lad talking into the radio, and we will be listening as ever for him.

WILLIAM IRA HOWELL, JR.

"Shorty"

OXFORD, N. C.

B.S.I.

Dramatic Club; First Lieutenant R. O. T. C.; Aesculapian Club.

"He is a soldier fit to give direction."

This tall boy is the star soldier on the campus. He's rarely seen without his R. O. T. C. uniform. If "Shorty" goes into the medical world as he expects to, he'll make an ideal doctor, for he possesses a doctor's qualities—patience, kindness, sternness, sympathy, brains. He cannot help but excel.

JOHN CICERO HUNT, JR.

"Popsy"

LEXINGTON, N. C.

B.S.I.

Pi Kappa Alpha; Scrub Football, '21; Class Football, '21; Varsity Football, '22, '23, '24; "D" Club; Wearer of the "D"; Fresh Day Committee.

"In friendship I was early taught to believe."

It will be a long time before we forget "Popsy's" spectacular playing on the gridiron. Furman will never forget it. "Popsy" possesses a most delightful personality—always pleasant, always smiling—and is a good student besides. The best wishes of every man in school follow him as he leaves.

Senior Class

CHARLES RICHARDS HUNTER

"C. R."

BLENHEIM, S. C.

South Carolina Club; Aesculapian Club; Eumenean; Class Baseball; Class Track; Assistant Editor The Peanut Parcher; Business Staff Davidonian.

*"Often the cockpit is empty
In those whom nature has built many stories high."*

Charlie has brought us a cheery smile and cheery disposition from the old South State, though of a somewhat reserved nature. He has done some efficient work with the college publications, and is a good student. "C. R." has added fame to his class by his participation in class athletics. When he leaves he will not be forgotten.

MILES MOORE HUNTER, JR.

"Hunt"

PENDLETON, S. C.

B.S.I.

Sigma Pi Sigma.

"In honest man, close-buttons to the chin; Broadcloth without, a warm heart within."

Another lad who pursues the even tenor of his way when others are excited and flustered. He loves a life of ease, and usually gets what he wants. Some day we will hear, not of something spectacular, but of his hard won and well deserved success.

CALDWELL PHARR JOHNSON

"Zeke"

CHARLOTTE, N. C.

Pi Kappa Phi; Spanish Club.

"If music be the food of love, play on."

This comely youth from the Queen City is one of the most popular men on the campus, and a noted heart breaker. When he leaves he will leave a place that will be hard to fill. We let him go with our best wishes, knowing that our loss will be Charlotte's gain.

Senior Class

ROBERT TABOR KIMZEY

"Bob"

BREWARD, N. C.

Captain R. O. T. C.; Metrophilian; History Assistant; International Relations Club.

*"Whatever skeptic could inquire for,
For every why, he had a wherefore."*

It might be well said that in "Bob" we have another Napoleon, only one who is not doomed to defeat. His love of history has won him laurels in that line, but that is not his only success by far. "Bob" is always seen about the campus, and when he is gone, he will leave a place that will be hard to fill.

JAMES ALBERT LAKE, JR.

"There never was a river without its mist of gray,

There never was a Lake that failed to save the day."

Success for "Al" has been spelled by the sum total of labor and service. He has the ability to put things across, and this element has made him one of the most outstanding men on the Hill. Despite the fact that he is always engaged in some work outside the classroom, he has never failed to be one of the best students of the class.

FRANCIS HENLEY LINDLEY

"France"

GUILFORD COLLEGE, N. C.

B.S.I.

Class Basketball; Class Baseball; Metrophilian.

"Silence is golden."

This man is one of the most diligent we have ever met. He is always working. New problems and hard work are what he lives on. Still he finds time for basketball and is good at it. If "France" works as hard in life as he has here, he will achieve all that he sets out to achieve.

GREENSBORO, N. C.

B.S.

Kappa Sigma; Football Squad; Student Council; Assistant Manager Football, '22; Manager Football, '24; Wearer of the "D"; Omicron Delta Kappa.

"He hath a great attraction for the ladies."

"Zander" is one of the most popular men on the Hill, his many fine qualities having won him many friends. Only a bad heart kept him out of a brilliant football career—but it didn't prevent his being manager of the team, and a good one. We predict a brilliant future for "Zander."

KENNETH SHEPARD McALPIN

"Nicky"

BLACKSHEAR, GA.

B.S.

Eumenean; Scrub Football; Business Staff The Davidsonian; Business Manager The Davidsonian; Boarding House Manager; President Georgia Club; Movies; Business Manager The Saturday Evening Toast.

*"In every rank, or great or small,
'Tis industry supports us all."*

"Nicky" has done fine work for the Davidsonian and the movies, and his ability to secure ads has made him much in demand. He has been prominent in other activities, and when we lose him, his profession will gain a valuable man.

WILLIAM AULAY McAULAY

"Mac"

MT. GILEAD, N. C.

A.B.H.

Pyramid Club; Class Football, '22; Football Squad, '22, '23, '24; Varsity Football, '24; "D" Club; Wearer of the "D."

"I am as I am, and so I will be."

"Mac" has capped four years of hard work by winning his letter at guard. Short and hefty, and possessed of a true Wildcat fighting spirit, he has proven a valuable man on the gridiron. Hard knocks won't bother this boy when he hits the world.

Senior Class

BROWN McCALLUM

"Cuba"

DILLON, S. C.

A.B.

Kappa Alpha; Pande-inie; McCallie Club; South Carolina Club.

"Love stops at nothing but possession."

"Cuba" McCallum, that good-looking boy from Dillon. One-half of Cuba's heart belongs to the ladies; the other half belongs to his many friends. No man ever had a truer friend than when he had "B" for a friend. We wish him every success—particularly when he visits Havana.

B.S.

"D" Club; Track Team, '22, '23; Football Squad, '22, '23, '24; Court of Control, '23; Athletic Council, '22-'23; Kappa Sigma.

"The first years of man must make provision for the last."

Talk about a fighter—"Red" is one. He doesn't know what it means to quit. When the fray is thickest, his sorrel thatch is right in the center of it. And what it takes to hurl a javelin, he's got it. Fight the problems of life as you have fought for your college, "Red," and you'll be right on top.

JAMES HARVEY McCONNELL, JR.

"Spec"

ASHEVILLE, N. C.

B.S.H.

Kappa Sigma; Varsity Basketball, '23, '24; Varsity Track, '23, '24; Assistant Cheer Leader, '22-'23.

"Life is like a game of tables—the chances are not in our power, but the playing is."

"Spec" holds the college record for the half mile. He is also a sweet basketball player. But perhaps his chief claim to fame lies in his ability to think up some devilment. We firmly believe that "Spec" gets more real joy out of going to college than any man we know. Such a personality as his cannot fail to produce success.

Senior Class

THOMAS CURTIS McSWAIN

"T"

MINTURN, S. C.

A.B.II.

Pi Kappa Alpha; Eumeneus; International Relations Club; Subscription Manager Davidsonian; South Carolina Club; Political Science Assistant.

"On with the dance, let joy be unconfined."

"T" is co-sheik with B. McCallum and Dick Littlejohn, and numbers his conquests by the dozens. But "T" is more than a sheik—he is a big-hearted, good-natured gentleman, whom the Class of '25 is proud to claim as a member and hates to see leave.

ALBERT LYONS, JR.

"I"

ROGERSVILLE, TENN.

B.S.I.

"It takes more than a fool to hold his tongue."

We were glad to see Albert return to school this fall after being out last year, for he is a fine and likeable fellow, and has made many friends here. Rather reserved and a hard worker, he is not seen very often, but these very traits will bring him success when he has left us.

ARTHUR DUNCAN MALLOY

"Red"

QUITMAN, GA.

A.B.

Kappa Sigma, Georgia Club.

"High-erected thoughts seated in a heart of courtesy."

"Red" can hit a golf ball further than any man in school; and at the same time vamp more girls. He possesses a splendid personality. Long after he is gone boys will recall his ever ready smile and his shout of greeting.

However, he has not confined himself solely to evoking merriment, but has taken an active part in many forms of campus activities. We do not hesitate to prophesy that his talents will bring him fame and fortune.

HENRY BELK MATTHEWS

"Head"

CHARLOTTE, N. C.

B.S.I.

Class Football, '21

"I seek no better warrant than my own conscience."

"Head" is about as quiet a boy as we know, attending to his own business and always passing his work. You have to know him to truly appreciate him, but once you do know him you wish you had known him sooner. We wish him well.

"The thing that goes farthest in making life worth while is just a pleasant smile."

Never quite good enough for the varsity, "Twist" has done his share on the scrubs, and on the class teams. It is men like him that make the varsity what it is. We don't know what profession "Twist" is going to follow, but we bet he will make a success.

*"I dare do all that may become a man,
Who dares do more is none."*

One of the few that have come to us from the far off state of Alabama, and one of whom old Alabama may well be proud. "Jimmy" has so endeared himself in our hearts and worked so hard for D. C. that it will be hard to fill his place when he leaves us soon. A ready smile and a helping hand for all who need help are the sources of the popularity of this lad. He has worked hard and has done well, so brilliant opportunities await him in the struggle of life.

No man has done more for his society and for religion at Davidson than this product of the Empire State. Not in the least ostentatious, but following always the even tenor of his way, he has made his college career a distinct success. He will do as much in the ministry.

FRANK ROBERTS MONTGOMERY

"Stout"

Senior Class

WILLIAM WALLACE MORRIS, JR.

To blow on whom I please."*

One of our men from the nearby town of Concord, in whom the spirit of Concord is supreme. "Wally" is quiet and easy going, but one who is strong in backing his school and class to the utmost. "And, weaponless himself, made arms ridiculous."

In this man we have a rare mixture of qualities. "Pat" is a stud in his work and a stud in his athletics—a wrestler of fame, and a hard worker on the football squad. If success comes by work, there is no doubt that all success will be "Pat's," and as he leaves us he will be remembered by all. Here are the best wishes to you in the future, "Pat."

"If you want anything done right, do it yourself."

Another "Pat" from afar off China, as well known as his brother, but more so in literary lines. He is a terror on the debating team, and already famous on the Hill for his power on the floor. This "Pat" is another man worthy of the Davidson title, and in the future years when the roll of our alumni is called, we know he will answer as loyally as ever to his name.

WILLIAM ALLEN PATTERSON

Unquestionably Jim is one of the big men of his class. Of cheery disposition, he is always found smiling his way through to success. Without his trombone, what would become of our band? Jim is the characteristic type of the Davidson "Good Fellow." He is everybody's friend and always a staunch supporter of his class. The world will find it hard to resist his fight to the top.

There came to us this lad from far off China, with more energy stored in him than is usually possessed by one man. A leader in all campus activities, he is the mainstay of Davidson on the tennis court, the head of our Y. M. C. And to make the age to come my own."*

"Pee Wee" came to us from Oglethorpe University down in Georgia, and although he had this late start on our campus, he has overcome the handicap by his hard work and winning personality and is now one of the outstanding men of his class. In him we have a man to be proud of, the little marvel of the varsity baseball squad, one of the leaders in literary circles, a high grade student, and last, but not least, one of our cheer leaders.

"Whence is thy learning? Hath thy toil o'er books burned the midnight oil?"

When you refer to "Stud," you refer to Phi Beta Kappa and a four-year average of 98. How he can do it and still find time for many other activities is more than we can see. But he does do it, and he will make just as good after he's gotten that sheepskin.

JAMES MORRIS TROTTER

"Jimmie"

CHARLOTTE, N. C.

B.S.II.

Pyramid Club; Class Basketball, '23, '24; Tennis, '24, '25; "D" Club; Secretary Charlotte Club.

"Still waters run deep."

When it comes to smashing a tennis ball, just leave it to "Jimmie" to bring home the bacon. Furthermore, he has equal ability when it comes to making friends. This, with his other natural talents, should place this popular Queen City boy at the top of the list.

SALISBURY, N. C.

B.S.II.

Phi Gamma Delta; Sigma Upsilon; Editor Cap and Bells Section of Magazine; Humorous Editor "Quips and Cranks;" Golf Club.

"A happy disposition is a prism that reflects the blue rays."

Bob is one of the literary lights of the campus, his talents as a writer and his unfailing humor having won him many honors. He also swings a mean golf club, being a member of the golf team. Whatever walk of life Bob goes into, we are expecting great things of him.

"We are deceived by the appearance of rectitude."

Hugh is as fine a boy as we have ever known. Pleasant, versatile, hard working, he has more than made good in his stay at Davidson. Regardless of where he goes or what he does, we know that he will succeed.

Freshmen's and Debaters' Medals; Junior - Orator's Medal; Interscholastic Debater; Magazine Staff; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet; Education Assistant; Class Basketball.

"If it be a gentleman and a scholar you seek, you have found him."

A true son of old Davidson is "D. B.," embodying in his life her every ideal and striving always to advance her interests. As a speaker and writer he has few equals in school. If he tackles life with the same vim and ability that he tackles problems here, our good wishes are not necessary—but here they are, "D. B."

Senior Class

ROBERT DIXON WHITE

"Bob"

BURLINGTON, N. C.

B.S.I.

Philanthropic.

"I am a student, and women are enemies of study."

"Bob's" middle name is "Work." He is a man of few words, yet one who has made a host of friends. He is quiet and unassuming, and spends most of his time with his books. Such perseverance will place him high in the world and he leaves with the good wishes of all his associates.

HUGHES ERNEST WILKINSON

MEBANE, N. C.

Accounting Assistant; Punctuality Roll, '23-'24.

"It is not position, but mind that I want."

You have to be busy yourself to find "H. E.," for he believes in work and has but little time for anything else. Quiet and diligent, one can't help liking him. If work and sticking to it means anything, "H. E." can't help but make a success. We hate to see you leave.

History of Class of '26

HE time has come when, once more, a page of history shall be written. It shall be history in a condensed form, for the attainments of the Class of '26 are such that it is difficult to devote only a few hundred words to it. It is a history that the members can look at with pride; they are proud because of the honors that have come to '26 because of the efforts of its members, and with the close of the junior year our eyes are turned toward the final lap of our journey when the history then shall be the culmination of four years of hard work. Seven men were awarded football letters this year, five of these having received them previously. Red Laird, Wick Black, Harry Vance, Lucien Wells, Tom Baker, Nick Sappenfield and Red Anderson were the ones receiving the coveted monogram. Baker was selected by the newspapers as all-state end of the mythical eleven and Vance was the choice of all-state guard by the composite vote of the coaches. Sappenfield was a unanimous choice as second all-state quarterback, and were he a little heavier and could carry the ball more, he would have had a good chance at first quarter, since he was the one who sent the Wildcats driving against opponents.

In baseball last season Laird, Vance, Zion Alford and Frank Alford made their letters, and indications are that they will repeat their performance this spring with several more men standing a chance to make theirs. Laird will be the mainstay this spring in the twirling box, Zion Alford will handle shortstop, while Frank Alford and Vance will be in the outer gardens.

In basketball Laird, for the third time, made his letter; Bill Cox and Vance made a second letter in wrestling this year, and last season Red Anderson and Archie Williford won letters in track. So far the Class of '26 are without representatives on the tennis team, but with the graduation this year of all varsity members they are expected to supply a number next year.

Perhaps the most distinct athletic honor coming to our class was the awarding of a loving cup to Red Laird last year, which he won after being voted as the best athlete in Davidson College. Red is a three-letter man, taking part in three major sports—football, basketball and track. Harry Vance is also a three-letter man, having obtained letters in football, baseball and wrestling.

We supplied five of the nine debaters on intercollegiate teams this year, four of them making their debut in intercollegiate forensic circles this year. Hayden Hollingsworth was a member of a team for the second time, while Yank Bowie, Pete Parker, Buck Shaw, and B. U. Ratchford made the team for the first time. All of these men have had experience in intersociety contests. Nine men of our class made the honor roll the past fall semester, three of them having done so before. Those obtaining this honor were Hollingsworth, Ratchford, Parker, Regen, Houston, Shaw, Millner, Brenner and Graves, the latter making the highest average of anybody in college this semester. Five men were in the personnel of the Glee Club and fourteen of the Junior Class are members of the Reporters' Club, which constitutes half of that membership. Other honors have been obtained by members which naturally come as the class gets nearer graduation.

The class has been greatly saddened this year because of the death of two of our members, Jack McNair and Jack Miller, both of whom were roommates. McNair died during the fall, while Miller's death occurred March 6. Many men of the class have dropped out and we miss them, but these men were with us at the time of their death, and because their life has ebbed away forever, we feel the sting of death still more since it has crept into our midst and carried away with it two of the best and finest members of the class.

Officers of the Class of '26 for the three years, respectively, have been: Presidents, Sappenfield, Baker and Shaw; vice-presidents, J. A. McMillan, Monk and Tootie Crayton; secretary-treasurers, Houston, Regen, and Buster Lawson; class poet, C. F. Smith, and class historian, Ernest Milton, the last two having been elected for the four years.

History of the Class of '28

September 9th and 10th saw the arrival of the largest Freshman Class in the history of Davidson College. Two hundred and sixty strong and hailing from eighteen states and two foreign countries, we made up a pretty heavy load, but "Old 97" brought us safely to our destination and dropped us safely in the arms of Minerva.

Soon after our arrival we were "given" new headgear which was not to be cast to the sidelines as long as we dwelt in these muddy red hills, no matter how pugnacious we might become. We were also "given" our pictures, which were artistically sketched in green with a green background to match. On these pictures were the laws of the Medes and Persians which were to serve as our decalogue while on the campus. Most of us have observed them to the letter and have displayed the red and black helmet at all times. Along with our pictures we were "presented" with a badge to be worn when we could not wear our fresh caps, as we had to clothe ourselves in khaki four times a week in responding to the call to arms.

We were given a cordial welcome by the "Y," and after being exposed to the Wildcat spirit for a few days and being made to feel that we were really a part of the student body, we endeavored to live up to the spirit shown by our predecessors.

In athletics '28 has made a record to be proud of. The Wildkittens lost only one game during the whole football season, that being to the Furman Freshmen. The basketball team was not quite so successful, although a creditable record was made. In the interclass track meet it was shown that '28 had a wealth of track material. As baseball season has just opened it is difficult to prophesy as to the skill of '28 in this branch of athletics.

Our time and talents have not been devoted to athletics alone. We have burned a considerable amount of midnight oil. The majority survived the mid-term examinations and three made the honor roll, this being the largest number to have attained this honor out of the Freshman Class in several years. One of our members tied for one of the highest grades ever made on a psychological test in America. Twenty-eight made the highest average ever made on a psychological test in Davidson.

The class, as a whole, has shown much interest in literary and forensic work. Many have allied themselves with literary societies and have demonstrated their skill in debating and writing. Those who have been at the helm are: J. S. Foster, president; R. E. Wilson, vice-president, and H. F. Peterson, secretary-treasurer.

"Twenty-eight is going to endeavor to be worthy of the principles for which our Alma Mater stands "and win in everything for the honor of old Davidson."

Alumni Interested in Davidson's Athletics

N the past year the Alumni Association has shown more than the usual amount of interest in Davidson College through various forms of encouragement that have been given to the development along athletic lines.

Paramount in value to the school was the gift of Richardson Field to the college by Mr. L. Richardson, of Greensboro, N. C., president of the Alumni Association. At the present time the field lacks only the concrete stadium to rank it among the best planned plants of the South. These concrete seats will be added as soon as the financial condition of the college permits. Official statement is that this will not be many years.

Last fall, when the great Carolina game was approaching with no possibility of handling the crowds on Richardson Field, Dr. James M. Douglas and three other alumni showed their very great interest and devotion to the college. All four signed personal notes to enable the Athletic Association to purchase six thousand temporary seats, which lined two sides and one end of the field as the greatest crowd in the history was orderly handled.

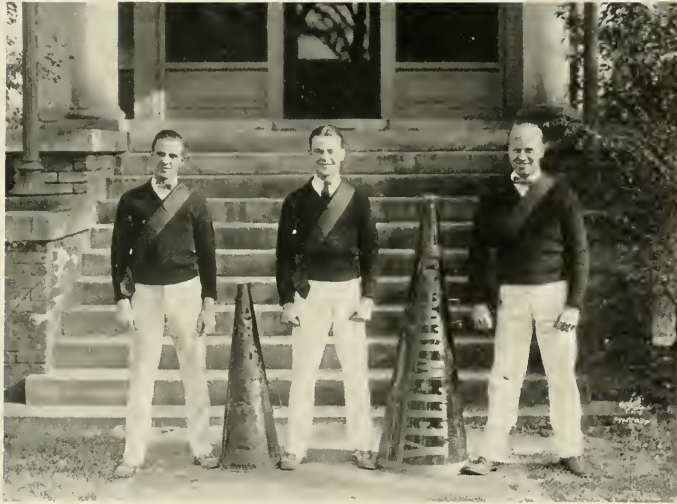

Three banquets were given the football team that so valiantly fought for Davidson. The first followed the Furman University game when the Richland County Association entertained at Columbia, S. C.

Following the successful season the Gaston County Alumni Association also gave the football team a banquet—in Gastonia. This was the second banquet in six months for that group of Davidson men, as in the spring they had so honored the baseball team following the Trinity College game.

The Charlotte Alumni Association signally honored the same gridiron squad in the crowning feature of the year when, on the night of the Georgia Tech basketball game, they were hosts to the team and coaches. Besides a delightful banquet the Queen City men presented to the letter men gold footballs appropriately engraved.

So as the Alumni Associations and the college are becoming more and more congenial and co-operative, the future of Davidson along athletic lines looks brighter than in the past.

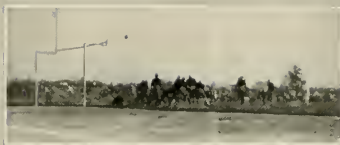

BRYANT
ASSISTANTS: HUDSON, MONK

O, Davidson!

O, Davidson! we will down them,
Down them every one;
Come, Davidson, we will conquer
Ere the day is done.
Down every foe then, as through their lines we run;
Win for the honor
Of old Davidson.

FOOTBALL.

The Wildcat Coaches

Again the entire Wildcat tribe has greatly profited by the expert instruction given by three coaches during the past year. Coaches Younger, Tilson and Rawson have rendered an invaluable aid to the college by their whole-hearted support and fine work. All have labored hard to perfect the men in the various branches of athletics, and the results can be seen in the records the football, basketball, and baseball teams have left behind them during the past year.

Coach "Monk" Younger is a true Wildcat, having been started on the road to stardom here at Davidson, where he won four letters in one single year. After making good as an athlete at V. P. I., and coaching there several years, he returned to Davidson in the fall of 1923 to head the athletic department here. His has been a record of which to be proud, for he has not only put out winning teams, but teams that have made names for themselves for their fair play and good sportsmanship. He has gained the admiration of every man on the campus for his fair treatment of all alike, and by his interest in each and every man, he has proved himself something more than a teacher. He has instilled the love of a hard game into the spirits of his pupils, one of his main points being that the way the game is played is the thing, and not the winner.

S. D. "Tex" Tilson, during his two years at Davidson, has done much towards strengthening the football teams, and the track team of this spring. After a four-year sojourn at V. P. I., where he gained recognition as a great football player, he came to Davidson with "Monk" Younger, and has been instrumental in building up a charging line that has shown its mettle in the many hard games that it has come through with flying colors. By taking a course in track coaching last year, he has prepared himself for track coach here this year. He is a great favorite among the students and athletes.

Clarence Rawson divides his time between coaching all branches of athletics at Davidson and playing professional baseball in the summer. He trains the Freshmen in football, basketball, and baseball, his training being reflected in the men that have made the varsity from the Fresh teams that he has coached. He instills into his men the love of clean fighting and pep. And, knowing the game as he does, from all angles, he has been able to teach his proteges the ways of true sportsmen.

Football Resume

HE football season of 1924 ended in a blaze of glory for the fighting Wildcats, who gave blow for blow in every game that they played during the season. From the defeat of Elon on the home field, to the glorious comeback and subsequent defeat of Trinity on their own gridiron, the wearers of the Red and Black of 1924 displayed a dash and a punch that disregarded weight and brawn on the part of their opponents, and gained for themselves everlasting honor in the Wildcat hall of fame.

The credit for such a successful season is due in no small part to the excellent work of Coaches Younger and Tilson, who labored hard to produce a winning team. Under their tutelage, Tom Baker and Harry Vance developed into stars of all-state magnitude. Under the second year of their guidance, the whole team caught the spirit of teamwork and hard work, the result being as fine a string of victories as were ever garnered by a Wildcat eleven.

With practice starting the first of September, the first game with Elon came as a final touch to the period of intensive practice. The plucky Christians fought hard, but even with a muddy field, the Davidsonians scored a 14 to 0 victory.

Jim Hendrix came back strong in the game with P. C. in Asheville, and his wide end runs helped Davidson to score 15 to the South Carolinians' 3. McConnell got his start in this game, earning his berth for the rest of the season.

Captain Davis showed his pigskin ability in his own home town of Winston-Salem, when he helped to defeat University of Richmond by a 7 to 0 score. This game was a tight one, and it was not won without a hard fight.

The much-talked-of team from Lenoir came to Davidson and was sent back to its lair, losers by a lop-sided score of 45 to 0. Coach Younger's men were ready for anything, but found the going easy. The light line of the Wildcats held and tossed back the Mountain Bears for uncounted losses.

Davidson's goal line was crossed first in the fiercely contested tilt with Furman at the South Carolina state fair. Sapp and Hunt made repeated runs through the enemy's line, but we failed to score. Furman gained their marker on a blocked punt.

The entire team played as a man in defeating Clemson in Charlotte. The hard line plunging and the perfectly executed passes could not be stopped. It was in this game that Vance and Baker starred as they had never before.

With only a few minutes to play, the Wildcats staged a heroic rally in the game with State at Pinehurst, and tied the score, 10 to 10, by a long 72-yard rush down the field. The entire game was fought against odds, but the unquenchable spirit of the felines never flickered out.

The Carolina game was a perfect exhibition of football. Although the Wildcats lost by two field goals, the final score being 6 to 0, the entire game was marked with a fierce determination and vigor. Neither team gave in for a single minute, and the largest crowd that ever witnessed a game in Western Carolina looked on with admiring eyes. The team rested secure with the knowledge that they had given all they had.

Another fourth quarter rally enabled the Wildcats to upset all sorts of dope and defeat the Methodists on their own grounds, 21 to 13. Thus ended a successful season from every standpoint.

Much credit is due to the coaches and to the entire personnel of the football squad. The student body was behind the team at all times, cheering and urging them on. The alumni were ready at all times to lend a helping hand or encouraging voice of approval. Certainly, it can be said that the season of 1924 was one of the best that Davidson ever had. With a team averaging many pounds lighter than any of the teams met, she came through to seven glorious victories and to two honorable defeats, that were victories within themselves. The other game resulted in a tie.

CAPTAIN C. M. DAVIS, D Winston-Salem, N. C.
 Left End, Weight 136 lbs.

"Captain Davis went high into the air to get a twenty yard pass and carried the ball fourteen yards to the one-yard line."—Asheville Citizen.

His ability to snag passes was famed; his interference superb. As he led the Wildcats eleven through the most successful season of recent years, Nappy was ever fighting to the last.

CAPTAIN-ELECT R. E. BOGGS, D* Birmingham, Ala.
 Right Guard, Weight 162 lbs.

"Boggs smashed through the line into a Wolford punt, recovering across the goal line for the only touchdown of the game."—Charleston (W. Va.) Gazette.

A low charger on the defense, a vital part of the Davidson line-interference, Sook consistently played a great game in the center of the line. His return to captain the team means much to the Wildcats.

JAMES P. HENDRIX, D Greensboro, N. C.
 Halfback, Weight, 148 lbs.

"Stiff-arming and dodging, ducking and sprinting, with a splendid change of pace, Hendrix fought his way forty yards for a touchdown."—Hendersonville Daily Times.

Jim's spectacular playing alone turned the tide of victory to the Wildcats in the P. C. State, Clemson, and Trinity games, placing him on the all-state teams of many leading North Carolina papers.

JOHN C. HUNT, D Lexington, S. C.
Fullback. Weight 157 lbs.

"His defensive work was well-nigh perfect, getting off twice for over twenty-five yards on passes, and once around the end for the same distance."—Charlotte News.

Never will the Davidson students forget the thrill of those plays coming over the wires from Columbia, nor will the crowd that later on saw the Clemson game, forget his powerful lunges that started Davidson to victory. His place-kicking was good; all-round, a very valuable man.

J. M. C. COVINGTON, D* Laurinburg, S. C.
Halfback. Weight 140 lbs.

"Covington took a beautiful pass from Black and raced 35 yards to the one-yard line."—Raleigh News and Observer.

As Ted snagged the ball and raced diagonally toward the goal line, he completed one of the greatest comebacks of many years, the next play bringing the winning touchdown. Down at Pinchurst he had done the same thing. A fast back and a clean player.

SAM W. SUMMERS, D* Marion Junction, Ala.
Tackle. Weight 201 lbs.

"With the aid of Summers, going down under punts, Davidson gained on the exchanges."—Spartanburg (S. C.) Herald.

Throughout the season Sam did some valuable work in relieving Tilson's great pair of tackles. His best game was against the Wofford Terriers, in which his offensive and defensive play were integral elements of the Davidson victory.

THOMAS S. BAKER, D² Jacksonville, Fla.
Left Tackle. Weight 150 lbs.

"He refuses to be boxed in; he is too busy analyzing the offense to be harassed by opponents; he is a red-headed, fire-rating Wildcat—Baker of Davidson,"—Charlotte Observer.

The lightest linesman in the state, he was on the first team of every leading paper's all-state pick. Time after time, crowds moved by his great fighting game, rose to madly cheer him.

G. FLAKE LAIRD, D² Decatur, Ga.
Right Tackle. Weight 172 lbs.

"As the stands stood tense, Laird kicked the tying goal,"—Green-hora Daily News.

Even if Flake had not played a "whale of a game" at tackle the last part of the season, his kicking the tying goal against state, and the winning point against Trinity would place him forever in our hall of fame. He was at his best against Carolina, smearing innumerable plays and lifting great punts when the Wildcat goal was, time after time, threatened.

LUCIAN W. WELLS, D¹ Fairmont, N. C.
Halfback. Weight 157 lbs.

"Wells' twisting off-tackle plays accounted for numerous gains,"—Jacksonville (Fla.) Times-Union.

As Lucian drove through and around the Techmen at Pinehurst, the Red and Black colors rose high. He couldn't be stopped. His work was steady throughout the season, his interference helping many a back to fame. He completed '26's trio of backs that started every game, and always upheld his side.

WILLIAM M. BLACK Davidson, N. C.
Fullback. Weight 162 lbs.

"Black was his playing partner, and was almost unstopable in his mad plunges through the Trinity line."—Raleigh News and Observer.

No one who saw Wick dive over and through the Methodists on Turkey Day will ever forget his playing. It was his and Sappenfield's accurate passing that frequently brought victory to the Wildcats. Black was the most consistent player of the season—always good for a few yards in a pinch, ever reliable on the defense; in fact, the backbone of the team.

HARRY L. VANCE, D* Huntersville, N. C.
Left Guard. Weight 165 lbs.

"Vance was largely responsible for the Davidson victory, his vicious charges sending the Clemson backs sprawling on the ground for great losses."—Greensboro Daily News.

Another all-state man, whose work, side by side with Baker, made the left side of the line well-nigh impregnable. Against Trinity his terrific tackles broke up many plays.

NEVIN E. SAPPENFIELD, D Concord, N. C.
Quarterback. Weight 138 lbs.

"Sappenfield's brainy work at quarter, directing the attack of the Davidson machine with perfect precision, and returning the Clemson punts for consistent gains, featured."—Gastonia Gazette.

Nick Sappenfield was undoubtedly the find of the season. His head was ever cool; his ability to switch the style of offense at the psychological moment often changed defeat to victory. He got more power out of his team than any quarter in the state.

QUIDS AND CRANKS

JOE W. MCCONNELL, D. Davidson, N. C.
Center. Weight 163 lbs.

—Charlotte Observer.
"Davidson has a big asset in her steady little center; McConnell is positively deadly in his passes."

No punter ever faltered on account of bad passes from the center with Joe playing the pivot position — not even when, with the Wildcats heavily outweighed, the kicker stood back fifteen yards. Several times McConnell snatched an opposing pass out of the air.

WADE H. LEGGETTE, D. Red Springs, N. C.
Halfback. Weight 143 lbs.

—Winston-Salem Journal.
"Leggette's punting, as he hested Savorly by many yards, was one of the features of the game."

Probably Count's greatest game was against the Richmond Spiders, when he returned punts, caught passes, raced around the ends, and outpunted his opponent — everything contributing to the Wildcat victory. At Plachurst he went like a racehorse, until injured, and then came back to punt out of danger. The Technicians were crying, "Watch Leggette."

ERNEST F. BOHANON, D. Davidson, N. C.
Right End. Weight 157 lbs.

—Charlotte News.
"Bohanon in the first quarter spilled the Spider backs for frequent losses around the ends."

A hard driving and steady flank man, Bo at times thrilled the spectators with wonderful defensive work. His work received honorable mention and even a place on North Carolina's largest papers' second all-state team. He did some great interference running.

JAMES F. PINCKNEY, D Beckley, W. Va.

"The Davidson line distinguished itself with glory, Pinckney once saving a fumbleback by a beautiful dive for the pigskin."—Asheville Citizen.

Fast, well-built, though a little light when compared with opposing linemen, and possessing a clear head, Pinckney completed the Wildcat trio of ends. Jim is the first West Virginia boy to win a football letter in many years. His one-handed interception of a P. C. pass was the prettiest thing of its kind during the year.

JULIUS W. ANDERSON, D Anderson, S. C.
Tackle, Weight 163 lbs.

"Anderson came smashing through to throw the Trinity backs for losses."—Durham Herald.

Red was the third sorrel-topped lad to cover a tackle position, and he was right there when needed. Though the regulars were rated by many papers as the best pair of tackles in North Carolina, Anderson didn't let his end fall down a bit when substituting.

DAVID M. McCOMB, D Hickory, N. C.
Halfback, Weight 155 lbs.

"Trinity seemed almost powerless to check the deadly Sappenfield-to-McComb air attack."—Raleigh News and Observer.

Four consecutive times Red raced around the ends and leaped into the air to complete the pass, bringing the Wildcat team down deep into the Blue Devil territory; victory soon came. He was valuable reserve material before that, but thereafter he ranked with any on the receiving end of the "famous Wildcat passing attack."

ALEXANDER W. McALISTER, D Greensboro, N. C.
 Manager. Weight 160 lbs.

"Davidson had a schedule conducive to the development of an aggressive attack."—Charlotte Observer.

A great gridiron hero of the past, unfortunately out on account of injuries, Zander showed he was just as capable of carrying the team through the long season as he had once been able to carry the ball through the other colleges' lines.

WILLIAM A. McALAV, D Mt. Gilead, N. C.
 Guard. Weight 157 lbs.

"Playing at guard, when the Davidson line held the powerful backs of the Purple Hurricane four straight downs within the three-yard line, was McAulay."—Charlotte News.

Practically every game saw Mac going in to strengthen the center trio at some critical moment. He was undoubtedly the most valuable sub linesman—so often did he fill in that hardly could he be rated a sub. A low charger, a hard fighter, a clean player, he will be missed in 1925.

The Norris Athletic Trophy

The Norris Athletic Trophy, presented annually to the best all-round athlete of Davidson, by Norris, Inc., of Atlanta, Georgia, was offered for the first time in 1924, and won by Green Flake Laird, of the Class of 1926. The trophy, a sixteen-inch silver cup mounted on a hardwood base, is the highest award for athletic prowess at Davidson.

Flake Laird, by virtue of winning his "D" and star in baseball, football, and basketball, was awarded this cup by the vote of the entire student body in the spring of 1924.

From that memorable fall day of 1922, when Laird snatched a Gobbler pass from mid-air, racing seventy yards for what proved to be the tying touchdown of one of the greatest Wildcat battles, till Thanksgiving Day of 1924, when his place kick brought the first Davidson victory over a Trinity football eleven, Flake has ever ranked among the foremost athletes on the Davidson campus. His work at tackle has brought him considerable attention in the North Carolina sporting world, and to Davidson much honor.

During the spring of 1924 his work on the baseball nine ranked him as the leading Wildcat pitcher. His victory over Carolina was the first on the diamond in several years. A hard worker and a heavy hitter, he was ever a leader of the Davidson team.

It was, however, on the hardwood court that Laird first won his "D," as in his freshman year he ran wild at forward. He has held down this position in both the two years following. His weight, combined with his aggressive playing, and steady shooting, make the quint a very valuable player.

Laird is from Decatur, Georgia, and is a member of the Kappa Sigma fraternity at Davidson.

Resume Freshman Season

Winning all but one of the seven games of the 1924 football season, Coach Clarence Rawson's freshman squad rivalled the Davidson varsity in success. For six consecutive times the Wildkittens flashed brilliantly as they overpowered their opponents in some of the best first-year games of the Carolinas, only to lose the final contest to the great Furman University team. This brought to an end all hopes of the championship of the two Carolinas.

Save for this final contest, when the heavier Hurricane team crashed through the Wildkittens for four touchdowns, only two times during the season was the Davidson yearlings showed that Rawson had developed a fast and smoothly working machine.

With Captain Dick Grey scoring thirteen points, the Wildkittens opened their season in Monroe with a 19 to 0 victory over the Monroe High School.

The next week found almost every man on the team starring as the freshmen pounded the life out of the fighting Wingate College eleven, winning 38 to 0.

After being pushed all over the field in the first period, the Davidson line, lead by Ritchie and Arrowwood, stopped the Presbyterian College team on the one-foot line, and for four downs held them scoreless. Then, with P. C. leading by two field goals, Rawson's men opened up an attack that enabled Grey and Overton to both score touchdowns and win, 14 to 6.

In probably their best exhibition of football of the year, with Grey and Overton going strong on end runs and passes, the Davidson yearlings defeated Clemson on Richardson Field by a 13 to 6 score. The Tiger's 65-yard aerial attack was one of the greatest seen this year.

Scoring two touchdowns in the initial period, along with Grey's 38-yard field goal in the last, Davidson easily defeated Trinity's yearling team 16 to 7, again on Richardson Field. Wilson ran the Wildkittens well, as in most of the preceding games.

With perfect interference and great teamwork, the freshmen smashed their way to a 38 to 3 victory over the Oak Ridge team, later prep school champions of North Carolina. The game was again the feature of the Armistice Day celebration in Statesville.

Although losing to the great Furman eleven, champions of the Palmetto State yearling teams, by a 26 to 0 score, Coach Rawson's men showed the Davidson spirit, as in the last half they came back to hold the South Carolinians to one touchdown.

At all times throughout the season the yearling squad showed clearly the effects of Coach Rawson's thorough training. His teams ever showed the true Wildcat fight and punch; his work at Davidson is gaining him a reputation.

The following freshmen received their monograms, "D. C.," for good work on the gridiron: Ends, Arrowwood, Melton, McColgan, McEarchen; tackles, Ritchie, Grey; guards, McNeil, Maulden; centers, Chatham, Laws; quarter, Wilson; Halfbacks, Grey (captain), Harrison, McMillan, McGeachy; fullbacks, Overton and Sutton.

A gymnasium packed and jammed with students and frantic fans; the final game of the season with Wake Forest; second place in the state (runner-up to Southern champions) hanging in the balance. Then a thrilling and smashing victory by a margin of twenty points over the Baptists. That tells in part the grand climax of the 1925 basketball season, but just begins to tell of the best Wildcat season in many years.

Winning sixteen out of twenty-two games and losing only four college contests, the Davidson quint rang up 792 points to a total of 598 for opponents, making an average score of thirty-six to twenty-five.

Washington and Lee, Wake Forest and North Carolina were the only teams to down the fighting Wildcats who presented one of the best balanced attacks of many years.

Davidson opened the college year with a great 27-25 victory over Duke University, scoring fourteen consecutive points in a final desperate rally. The following night with the Methodists in the Davidson camp the Wildcats swamped them, 39-22. A disastrous defeat at the hands of the Southern champions at Chapel Hill came next, followed by just as swamping a victory over the Elon team. Following a third victory over Duke, a loss to Wake Forest, and a win from High Point, intermingled with mid-semester exams, the Wildcats were set for the final straightaway.

In one of the greatest games of the year Davidson sent Georgia Tech back to Atlanta at the tail end of a 36-27 score. Then came the great Virginia trip, Davidson winning from Guilford, V. P. I., Hampden-Sydney and Roanoke and howling alone to the Washington and Lee quint. On the return they were nosed out by Wake Forest in Charlotte only to swamp Guilford and Wake Forest on the two following nights. The team was fast and exceedingly well coached. Its frequent comebacks, its driving attack and its clean play placed it high in the admiration of sporting fans. Thus, Coach Younger closed another successful season.

CAPTAIN RALPH E. BOGGS, D..... Birmingham, Ala.

"Sook." Left Guard.

"'Captain Sook' Boggs was a sight in the world with the steady strength of a bullock in guarding his basket."—Atlanta Journal.

However, Boggs' play was not all confined to steady strength as with the grace of a Nurni. He worked the ball back and forth. He selean, but ever-perfect guarding was always the admiration of the fans. As a leader of the greatest basketball team at Davidson in many years, Boggs was fittingly chosen on many all-state teams.

M. S. BEALL, D..... Durham, N. C.

"Mac." Forward.

"Beall was good on floor-work."—Durham Herald.

Although not leading in the scoring, "Mac" Beall was, throughout the season, a highly valuable man to the Wildcat quint. His consistently good passing and floor-work often sent the team ahead after a half of mediocre ball. He played his part well and "therein all the honor lies."

ANDREW J. HEWLETT, D..... Wilmington, N. C.

"Andy." Forward.

"With great dash and speed Hewlett started them toward victory with a field goal and two fouls."—Raleigh News and Observer.

Out of the game a good part of the season with injuries, Hewlett won fame with his wonderful work in the first victory over Duke University. It was his injection into the fray that started the Wildcats on to their greatest comeback of the season. Many other times "Andy" showed his speed and a great willingness to "let the other man shoot" if in a better position.

THOMAS F. STALEY, D..... Bristol, Tenn.

"T. F." Right Forward.

"Staley played brilliantly, shooting four consecutive goals and placing Davidson in a good lead."—Asheville Citizen.

Rarely can a faster man be found than Staley. Coming down the court at full speed he would take the ball on a pass, give a slight twist and a goal would be recorded. He was second high-point man with 177 points and a highly valuable man at all times.

JAMES H. MCCONNELL, D.....Asheville, N. C.
"Spec." Right Guard.

"The work of McConnell was a feature of Davidson's play, as his great guarding and floor-work alone saved the Wildcats from defeat."—Greensboro Daily News.

As a running mate with Captain Boggs, "Spec" was almost perfect. His guarding, especially in the Georgia Tech game, was wonderful, while his fast dribbling or pass work toward the goal was a great factor in the Davidson offense. Nineteen hundred and twenty-five was his greatest year.

THOMAS F. ANDERSON, D.....Bristol, Tenn.
"Tom." Center.

"The showing of 'Tom' Anderson at center was one of the greatest features of the year as he rang up ninety-three field goals and a total of 219 points for an average of ten points per game."—Charlotte News.

"Tom" was easily the "find" of the season. He went good in practically every game, as he proved death on shots under the basket. With two years ahead of him, a great future is predicted for the Wildcats.

GREEN FLAKE LAIRD, D.....Deatur, Ga.
"Red." Left Forward.

"Laird came back with a strong game."—Winston-Salem Journal.

Starting off at a rather slow pace, Flake finished the season at top form. His work in the Wake Forest game, as he passed and shot accurately, brought the season to a close with a smashing victory. He and Staley made a fine combination at the forward positions, his quick shots from a distance being especially effective.

RAYMOND W. OELAND.....Spartanburg, S. C.
"Bub." Manager.

Oeland, as manager, worked out a schedule that enabled the Wildcats to show their stuff. He was an able financier, and handled the team in great shape.

Baseball Season of 1924

Davidson's defeat of Carolina in a gripping contest played in Gastonia Easter Monday, showed conclusively that the Red and Black team had the stuff that goes into making a great team. With a lead piled up against them until the final inning of the game, the Wildcats came back and won the game from the Tar Heels by a score of 7 to 6. This was the best game of the season, although the opener with the flashy little Oak Ridge team was as hard fought as any during the season.

This game resulted in a 5 to 5 tie, eleven innings being required to produce this score. Rain prevented the game from being played out. Potts and McPherson were on the mound for the Wildcats, and they did good work, although frequent errors marred the pep of the game. Davidson scored in the second and third innings, and made her last score in the eighth. Oak Ridge tied the score in the eighth, and the Wildcats were unable to ring up another marker. Davidson also won the second game, which was a slow one, by a 4 to 3 score. Red McPherson won his own game by a single in the seventh inning, scoring Captain Boushee ahead of him.

The fast team from Lenoir handed the first defeat to the Wildcats, defeating them 4 to 0, in a game that was featured by fast fielding on the parts of both teams. The hitting of Johnny Smith and the fielding of Vance were noteworthy.

Hard luck was encountered in Greensboro, when the Wildcats failed to score, and Trinity made five markers. Boushee and Laird were touched for eleven safeties, and the locals succeeded in making only five. The Wildcats gathered seven hits in the Guilford game, but could not score a single run, although the chances looked good at several different times. Another slow game was the one with State, in which the Techmen came out on the long side of a 10 to 1 score.

The Carolina game was witnessed by a large holiday crowd. The whole team played with a snap and punch that carried away the triumphal colors back to the lair of the fighting Wildcats. This was the first game won from Carolina since 1921, when Pat Crawford's homer saved the day.

The Red and Black team lost several good chances to win the game with the Atlantic Christian College, but let the Easterners win, 3 to 2. Poor support and fielding on the part of the Wildcats let Trinity get ahead and remain there until the finish of a 12 to 4 game, which was played in Gastonia. Following this game, the entire team was feasted royally by the Gaston County Alumni, at the country club. Here, past games were forgotten, and a good time was enjoyed by all and future plans discussed.

Boushlee (Captain)

"Bush" displayed his leadership throughout the season, and it was his good pitching that helped the team out of many tight holes. That game he pitched for the Wildcats against the Virginia Gobblers in their own territory, and with big flakes of snow falling, put a crimp in his arm that was hard to iron out. He played some great games out in the center garden during the main part of the season, especially in the Carolina game at Gastonia, in which he brought in three of the seven runs.

Covington (Captain-Elect)

Ted has made a name for himself in this neck of the woods with his style of playing. As a third baseman, he can collect balls and throw them to first from any and every position. His three years of work on the diamond merited his election as captain for the 1925 team. Fast and snappy fielding is his motto, although his work with the willow is of the class that makes big leaguers out of minors.

SMITH

Johnny Smith, who for four years labored hard for a baseball letter, was rewarded one for his good work on last year's team. He ably filled the place left vacant by Pat Crawford, and handled first base like a veteran. He was no slouch with his bat, either, and his hits added greatly to the sum total of the season's runs. He played well in every game, scooping up hot balls and receiving them with all ease.

MARROW

Tom Marrow secured his second letter in baseball last spring, and did some good work for the Red and Black aggregation in the centerfield position, which he alternated with Boushee. He had a knack of getting on base and waiting for the opportune time to sneak in home. He could spear high flies and hot liners with equal facility, as his long legs aided him in covering the reaches of the outer field.

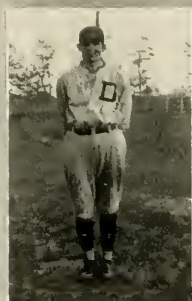

SIMPSON

"Pee wee" Simpson never let a ball get by him that was anywhere within grabbing distance. Like a trained seal he juggled balls all around second base, and never failed to tag his man, no matter how fast. His stick work was good, too, but it was at running bases and stealing them that he shone the most. He accepted ten hard chances without the semblance of an error in the Carolina game at Gastonia.

VANCE

Harry Vance was the main slugger of the whole team, for he was far recognized for his ability to swat the apple into the far reaches of the field. His performance in right field was brilliant. He made running catches and hard pegs to bases that would have done credit to any player. He gave a good account of himself in the Carolina game and more than once helped the pitcher out of a hole with fast fielding of the ball. The Raleigh News and Observer described his catch against State as "the most wonderful ever pulled on Red-disk Field."

FRANK ALFORD

The mighty wallops of this boy's bat helped materially in the defeats that Davidson handed to some of the best teams in this section. His playing in left field was always of the better variety, and when called to service as a catcher, he received with the best of them. His work behind the plate in the Carolina game was especially good, as he never let a ball past him. He continued throughout the year the pace that he set his Fresh year.

SION ALFORD

Sion's sizzling hit in the critical ninth inning of that famous Carolina game brought in the tying and winning runs for the Wildcats. As a shortstop, Sion is as dependable as they make them, scooping up every ball that comes his way, and holding his own with any of the swatters. He missed the first two games on account of an operation for his tonsils, but he played in every other game during the season. He is the second member of the Alford firm which has annexed four baseball letters.

LAIRD

Just after receiving the Norris cup for his athletic prowess, Red ambled over to Gastonia and pitched a superb game, in which the Wildcats won over Carolina. He showed his stuff in most of the games during the season, and led in batting on top of it all. Many a time he saved the situation by putting over some fast ones, and then knocking out a few two-baggers to win the game. He will be the main dependence of the Wildcats during this year's parcel of games.

MCPHERSON

"Red" was out of the game his sophomore year, owing to an operation, but he came back strong last year and pitched a pretty variety of ball for the Wildcats. Long and lanky, with a far-reaching throwing arm, he could sizzle the pill over home plate with a minimum of effort. He was always ready to fill in as a pinch hitter, and gave a good account of himself while doing so.

JOHNSTON

And they say that a freshman is no good. Kelly disproved that moss-backed theory by his very excellent stick and mitt work during the hectic season of '24. He broke into the squad during the first few days of practice and played the position of catcher like a veteran. He ran close to the top in batting all during the season, and it was an unusual event for him not to get at least one or two hits.

Davidson 1924 Track Season

The great work of Captain-Elect Gracey alone saved the Davidson track season of 1924 from being classed as complete failure as far as Davidson is concerned. Losing three matches to the best teams of the Old Dominion, and having a home meet with North Carolina State, and a triangular match with Clemson and Furman both washed away with torrents of rain, the Wildcats finished the season with little to remember save the generous margins piled up by the opposing teams. True enough, the little crew of ten men fought valiantly down at Raleigh in the state collegiate meet to place a third in a field of five schools, all the others represented by a squad thrice the size that Davidson started.

But match after match, as Davidson fell before faster teams, Gracey, realistically nicknamed "the track team," carried the Red and Black colors across the tape or over the bar for first and second places galore. Twice, at home against the V. P. I. Gobblers, and at Lexington against the Flying Squadron of the Virginia Military Institute, Gracey came out of the meet the high-point man of both teams. He is without doubt the most versatile track man of the state, or perhaps, of the South Atlantic. As in the Washington and Lee match, he hurled the javelin over 160 feet for a Davidson record, only to break that record down at the state meet by seven feet, he placed himself permanently in Davidson's hall of fame. On the hurdles, with the weights, and in the jumps, he was ever a leader.

Davidson opened the season on a beautiful spring day as the Virginia Tech squad won, 76½ to 49½, on Richardson Field. It was in this meet that Williford showed the stuff that proved that he had great possibilities as a track man; and Anderson leaped into the limelight with twelve points as he placed first in the pole vault and took off two seconds—high hurdle and javelin throw. Gracey scored 20 points for high-point man, winning three firsts, one second, and a tie for second. Injuries to Captain Streibich held him out of this match, and throughout the season greatly marred his work.

On April 18, a typical South Carolina rain storm cancelled the triangular meet with Furman and Clemson, at Clemson. Then came the two-meet trip into Virginia. The weather was ideal. The Cadets were enjoying the Easter Hops and gave the Wildcats a great time, after frocking them 96 to 36 at Lexington. Gracey again placed first in high hurdles and javelin throw, while McConnell was the first man to break the tape on the mile, and Streibich tied on the pole vault.

The team went stale over Sunday, and Washington and Lee had little trouble in winning on Monday, piling up 104 points to Davidson's 22. For the only time of the season, Gracey failed to get a first place, although breaking the college javelin record.

Then came the great fight of ten men pitted against Carolina State, Trinity, and Wake Forest's squad of from 25 to 30 men. Gracey won a first with his record javelin throw, while Williford, Streibich, McConnell, Goodskoontz, and McBride all counted up the remainder of Davidson's points. Carolina won the meet, though Byrum of State won great fame with first places in 100, 220, and 440 dashes.

CAPTAIN C. M. STREIBICH, D

Pole Vault

Hurdles

After winning the college record in the pole vault and showing neat form on the hurdles his junior year, Captain Streibich injured his ankle in early practice and failed throughout the 1924 season to show the stuff in him. Although handicapped by this injury, Streibich tried desperately to come back, but each time only to his own hurt. Up at V. M. I. he tied for a first in the pole vault and several times he pulled down second places, winning a third over at the state meet.

CAPTAIN-ELECT W. M. GRACEY, D

High Hurdles

Pole Vault

Javelin

Discus

No man ever better showed his fitness to lead a team than did "Bo-Peep" down at Raleigh, when on the first hurdle he lost his shoe, but won the admiration of the entire crowd as he gamely fought his way down the entire course on his half-bare feet for a close third. He was the high-point man in two of the Davidson meets, is the holder of the college record for the javelin throw, and a point winner in the pole vault, the weights, and the hurdles. An all-round man and a great leader.

A. M. MCBRIDE, D

Manager

Two-mile

After winning his letter and star on the two-mile, "Ang" had to give up track work on account of injuries to his side. However, he tried valiantly to come back his senior year, and pulled the biggest surprise of the season when he pointed in the State Olympic in the high jump. He managed the team well, carrying it through the best schedule ever attempted.

J. H. McCONNELL, D*

One-Mile

"Spec" was another member of the Davidson track team who broke into fame in the preceding season when, down at the State Olympic meet, he raced the mile for a first place at faster time than any Wildcat has ever run. This college record still stands, though "Spec" won several first places in the 1924 season and most always pointed. If his work on the track parallels his great comeback on the basketball court, the 1925 season will find him again leading the field.

T. H. KOENIG, D*

100-yard dash
220-yard dash
440-yard dash

"Ted" Koenig came to Davidson known throughout the state as "the Greensboro flash," winning his letter his fresh year, with excellent work on the dashes. An operation kept him off the cinders one season, and the 1924 season kept him working to get back into his old form. Built perfectly for a sprinter, he would no doubt have gone well his senior year had he returned.

J. P. HENDRIX, D

100-yard dash
220-yard dash
440-yard dash

Jim Hendrix won his track letter his sophomore year with some good work in the dashes, but somehow in the 1924 season he failed to get into his old stride. A hard worker and a great trainer, he fought throughout the season for the good of the team.

J. W. ANDERSON, D

High hurdles
Pole vault
Javelin

In the first meet of the season, "Red" jumped off to a big start with first places in the pole vault, and seconds in the high hurdles and javelin throw. It was his big day of the season, and proved that Anderson has the making of a valuable man to the team. His junior and senior years will probably find him excelling in every match.

A. B. WILLIFORD, D

Two-mile

The way Williford stuck in the first two-mile run against the Virginia Gobblers showed that he had the stuff of a real track man. During the fall of the year he led the Davidson cross-country team through the North Carolina long-distance run at Wake Forest. Though losing out, the team showed some promising material. Williford will no doubt develop into a great distance man.

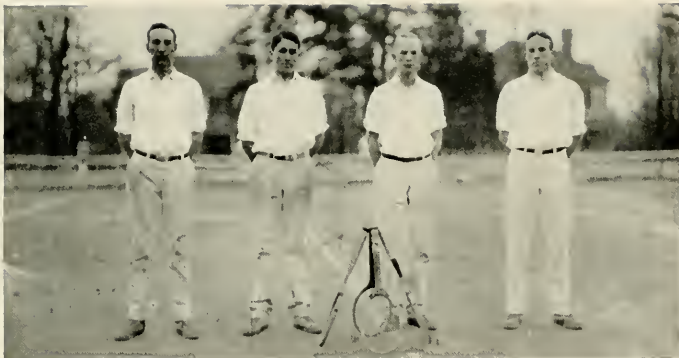

H. G. GOODYKOONTZ

100-yard dash
220-yard dash
440-yard dash

With the Davidson team meeting none but Southern Conference teams, Harry was ineligible for any of the track meets save the North Carolina Olympic at Raleigh, where he took a fifth in the 220 in a field of unusually fast sprinters. With three years before him, a great record will probably be written on the cinder paths by the West Virginia lad.

Davidson 1924 Tennis Season

Featured by Captain Price's winning of the intercollegiate singles championship of North Carolina, and the team's loss of only one meet, to Colgate University, the 1924 tennis season was decidedly a success from a Davidson standpoint. By defeating Wake Forest six straight matches in the only fall match, and tying Carolina and Trinity teams, together with the masterful playing of Price, Davidson won the mythical first honors of the state.

Harry Price not only won the state championship in the tournament held in Greensboro, but throughout the season he kept up the record established by Bradley, who won the championship cup in 1922 and 1923. During the whole season he met only one defeat, and that was from the star player of the eastern team. In the Colgate meet, Mac Beall alone was able to register a win for Davidson.

In the state tournament at Greensboro, after all four men had won their single matches on the first round, Price alone was able to hold his own, which resulted in his winning the cup, due to his defeat of Smith and Solomon of Carolina in an exhibition of great comebacks and steady driving.

The team then took a three-meet journey through the state, meeting Carolina, Trinity, and the Winston-Salem country club. All matches ended with scores standing 3 to 3.

The record for the year was as follows:

Davidson	6; Wake Forest	0
Davidson	1; Colgate University	5
Davidson	3; North Carolina	3
Davidson	3; Trinity	3
Davidson	3; Winston-Salem Country Club	3

Wrestling, 1925

One of the outstanding events of the 1925 wrestling season at Davidson was the development of Joe Frierson from a comparatively unknown wrestler to one of the best wrestlers in the state. In the 119-pound class he threw his man in every meet, in record time, except Slaven, of the strong navy team, who threw him after the match had been lengthened two extra periods. He seems a likely successor to the crown worn by Cromartie for a couple of years.

As a whole, the season was good. With defeats handed to State, Carolina, and Concord "Y," and losses to the strong navy and V. P. I. teams, every man on the squad showed up well, although several did not get to display their best skill, owing to injuries received. Cromartie and Lindamood of last year's team were missed, but the work of Laws, Summers, and Vance, the three heavy-weights, was especially good, considering the limited amount of training they received.

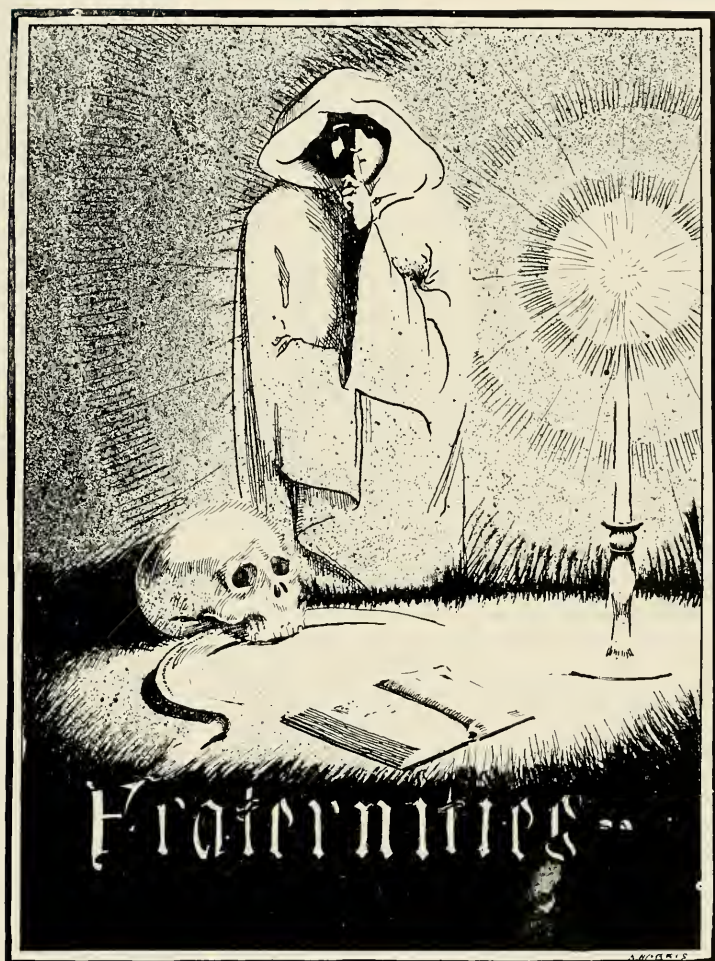

Concord "Y" was met on December 12, and a 30-0 defeat was handed them, the Wildcats winning every match. But in the return match on February 10, Patterson lost his match and Concord gained five points. This, however, did not prevent Davidson from calling it a 30-5 victory.

The Wildcats met State and defeated those grapplers, 11-6, not without the hardest kind of a fight. Frierson threw his man by a fall, "Bill" Cox and Patterson winning on time, and two matches ending in a draw. Each and every match was attended by the hardest kind of fighting by both sides, the spirit of the felines keeping up until the last match had been won.

The strong and experienced navy team waded through the ranks of the Wildcats at Annapolis for a 27-0 victory. The most interesting match of the meet was that of Frierson and Slaven.

V. P. I. invaded the lair of the Wildcats and handed them a defeat of 17-6. Frierson and Phil Cox won their matches, and others lost only after hard fights. The season was wound up in a good demonstration of the art of wrestling when the Davidson grapplers won from Carolina on the home floor, 14-11. The most closely-contested match was that of Phil Cox and Waters, the match going to the latter only after extra periods. Davidson won four matches to Carolina's three, Sam Summers springing the surprise of the evening by throwing the heavy-weight Taylor.

The Fraternity Situation at Davidson

DAVIDSON is proud of her fraternity system, and of the spirit that exists between fraternity and non-fraternity men. The idea of friendliness and equality prevails. And so thoroughly set against them is public opinion of the campus, that snobs are few and far between.

The chapters here are arranged in the order of their establishment—Beta Theta Pi being the oldest, and Pi Kappa Phi being the youngest national chapters on the hill. There are several healthy locals working for chapters of good nationals. Fraternity houses have been taboo under a ruling of the board of trustees until last year, when permission to build houses was granted under certain conditions. No actual building is in progress on these now, but plans are ready in some cases, and preparation for a new era in fraternity life at Davidson is being made.

The Pan-Hellenic Council, under control of the faculty, is the governing body of the fraternities here. Rules regulating all relations of chapters with freshmen, and setting dates for bid day, etc., are under the Council's jurisdiction, and its proper functioning is attested by the good will among the Greeks.

HONORARY fraternities are rewards gained only after two and a half or three years of proven worth. Their membership is limited to those who have shown especial interest in certain lines of work, or who have proven themselves worthy of recognition as all-round men on the college campus. Their existence is justified by the high esteem in which they are held, and by the glory, in a smaller or larger degree, that is acquired through membership therein.

The Davidson unit is composed of one infantry battalion with full equipment. There are four rifle companies of three platoons each, with a total enrollment of four hundred and thirty-seven men.

Above: The officers detailed on R. O. T. C. duty at Davidson. To them goes the credit for the showing that the battalion is making, and the esprit de corps that exists in the unit. Left to right: Capt. G. H. Weems, P. M. S. & T.; Capt. R. D. Daugherty; Lieut. J. H. George.
Below: Non-commissioned staff on duty at Davidson, Sgts. Pritchett and Kirby.

The R. O. T. C. at Davidson

HE fall of the 1917-18 session saw for the first time a drill by a military organization at Davidson. It was that year that five hundred and fifty of the leading colleges and universities of the country were turned over to the government for training purposes, Davidson being one of them. Military training was added to the curriculum to help our country meet the great demand for the trained soldier.

In the fall of 1918, the Student Army Training Corps was established at Davidson. Due to the shortage of officers available for training purposes, and "at the request of the War Department, four professors and thirty-three students went from Davidson to the training camp at Plattsburg, New York, to receive instruction which would fit them for assisting in teaching military science."

The entire college was turned over to the government. "The members of the faculty gave courses prescribed by the War Department, and regular academic courses were provided for the group of sixty students who were disqualified from military service by age or other cause." Two hundred and twenty-three men were enrolled in the S. A. T. C. Regular drills and strict discipline were required. The S. A. T. C. remained at Davidson until December 10, 1918, when it was demobilized.

Then, believing that a healthy body is one of the requisites of a healthy mind, and believing that a healthy body is best obtained by systematic exercise under skilled leaders, and believing that military training develops a healthy body along with a spirit of patriotism, the faculty of Davidson College asked the War Department that one of the units of the Reserve Officers Training Corps be established here. The War Department complied with this request, and Davidson College was included in the list of five hundred and fifty colleges and universities to receive one of these units.

From the experience of the last war, Congress saw the imperative need for some workable plan of national defense, and now, under the first possible plan ever adopted by this country, the R. O. T. C. units in the various schools and colleges form one of its most important items. In time of need they can furnish a large number of the officers in active service. They are well trained, capable, and will make excellent instructors.

In the early spring of 1919 the first organization of an R. O. T. C. unit was effected at Davidson, and was placed under the command of Captain A. H. Meuller (West Point, 1901).

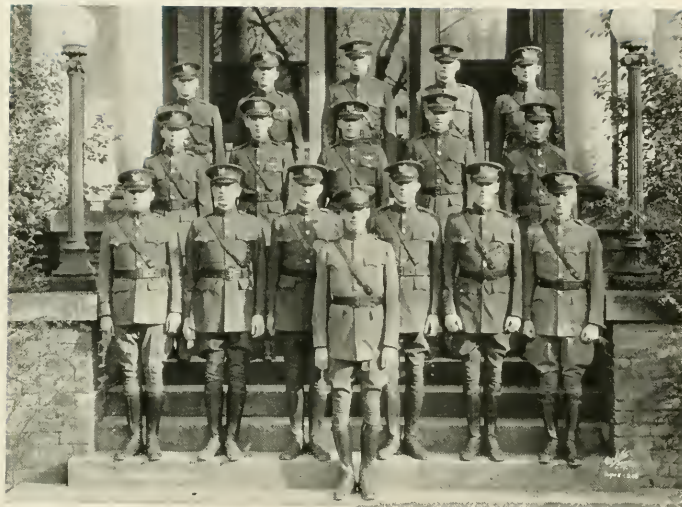

Under the rules of the college, military training is compulsory during the freshman and sophomore years to all not physically disabled, and optional or elective during the junior and senior years.

Captain Meuller was succeeded in command in 1920 by Captain Thomas G. Hearn (West Point, 1915). Captain Hearn remained in command four years, the progress and growth of the unit keeping pace with the growth of the college.

In 1924 Captain Hearn was transferred to active duty at Fort McPherson at Atlanta, Georgia, and Captain George H. Weems (West Point, 1917) took command of the R. O. T. C. unit.

Under the supervision of Captain Weems the development of the R. O. T. C. battalion has been even more conspicuous than before, and the Davidson unit is working for a distinguished rating.

R. O. T. C. Summer Camp

Six weeks attendance at a United States Army camp is one requirement of the advanced course R. O. T. C. Davidson being in the Fourth Corps Area, students from here go to Camp McClellan, Alabama. There, under the instruction of officers detailed on R. O. T. C. duty, a practical and more detailed knowledge of military work is obtained. It is not extra training—the instruction is not as thorough as that given at colleges, but rifle and pistol marksmanship, K. P. duty, and the joys of reveille are stressed.

At these camps those receiving training to make them efficient officers are thrown with regular army enlisted men and know exactly what army life is. Everything possible is done to make life enjoyable. At the last camp Davidson did not retain the general excellence cup, but lost out on the marksmanship scores.

The snapshots shown here give some idea of the appearance of things. Some show firing on the range, the targets, mealtime on the range, views of the camp, of the company streets, and some of the Davidson delegation.

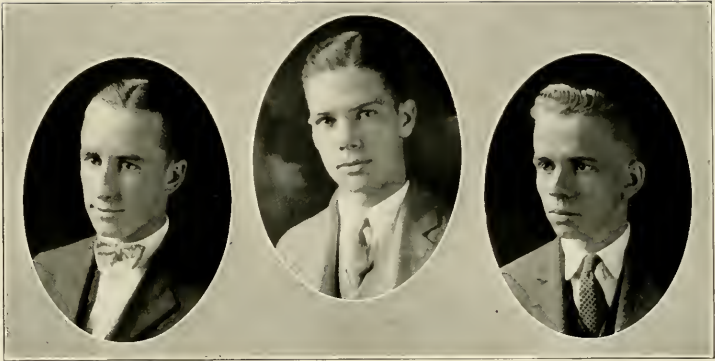

Publications

T is in writing that the histories of the world have come down to us. That writing has ranged from heiroglyphics to the modern press, but throughout the ages written books have recorded the acts of men. Today one of the main activities, outside the classroom, on a college campus, are the newspapers, magazines, and year-books published there.

Not only do publications occupy a prominent place in campus activities, but they are fostered and approved by those in authority at all colleges. They are an aid to classroom work, and an incentive to urge men to work and "let their lights shine before their fellows."

THANKS

Always at Davidson, in every work that requires the combined efforts of a group of men, there are those who work for no honor to themselves, but who work to the end that they may help the work to measure up to the Davidson standard. Such has been the case in the production of the 1925 QUIPS AND CRANKS, and the staff wishes to express its appreciation of the work of:

Resume of Debates, 1923-24

HE debating season of 1923-24 might be called a successful one. During that time three regular inter-collegiate debates were held, and a triangular debate for the freshmen. This freshman debate was something new in the forensic art at Davidson.

The first debate of the year was held at Davidson in December, with Washington and Lee as the opponent. The issue was on the question of restricting immigration. The affirmative was upheld for Washington and Lee by Lowry and Massinger, and the contenders for the negative were Stith and Hollingsworth. The negative received the decision by a vote of 3 to 2. In April there was a triangular debate between Davidson, Emory, and Trinity on the Rhur question. The affirmative was upheld for Davidson against Emory by Cox, Elkins, and Story. They received a favorable decision of 4 to 1. The negative for Davidson against Trinity was upheld by Wharton, Little, and Walthall. They lost the decision by a 4 to 1 vote.

The freshman triangle debate was between Davidson, Carolina, and Wake Forest. The question was on the problem of Philippine independence. The debate against Carolina was held at Davidson, where the affirmative was successfully upheld for Davidson by Stewart, Williams, and Branch. The team won the decision 3 to 0. The negative was upheld against Wake Forest by Don Wharton, Williams, and Irwin. They lost the decision by a vote of 3 to 2. Of all three teams debating the negative side of this question, the Davidson team was the only one which secured a single favorable vote.

Campus Activities

SIDE from classroom work, the interest of a large percentage of students is centered on a number of activities, which furnish opportunities for genuine service to Davidson, as well as for valuable experience and development.

In athletics, varsity sports naturally claim the center of attention. From forty to fifty per cent of the students go out for one of the branches of varsity sports, football claiming the largest number of aspirants. Of those who do not choose to try to win the coveted "D," a large number enjoy the pleasures of "campus football," gymnasium work, and golf.

Literary activities are varied, finding expression chiefly in the four literary societies and the three student publications. The societies claim a total membership of about two hundred, or approximately a third of the student body. The society halls resound weekly with sounds of debating and declaiming, where embryonic lawyers, preachers, and politicians try their wings. Very nearly an equal number of students contribute to student publications. The Davidsonian, the "livest wire on the hill," claims a healthy corps of alert reporters. The Davidson College Magazine contains the more strictly literary attempts of the students. Quips and Cranks is prepared and edited by a lively crew of efficient workers.

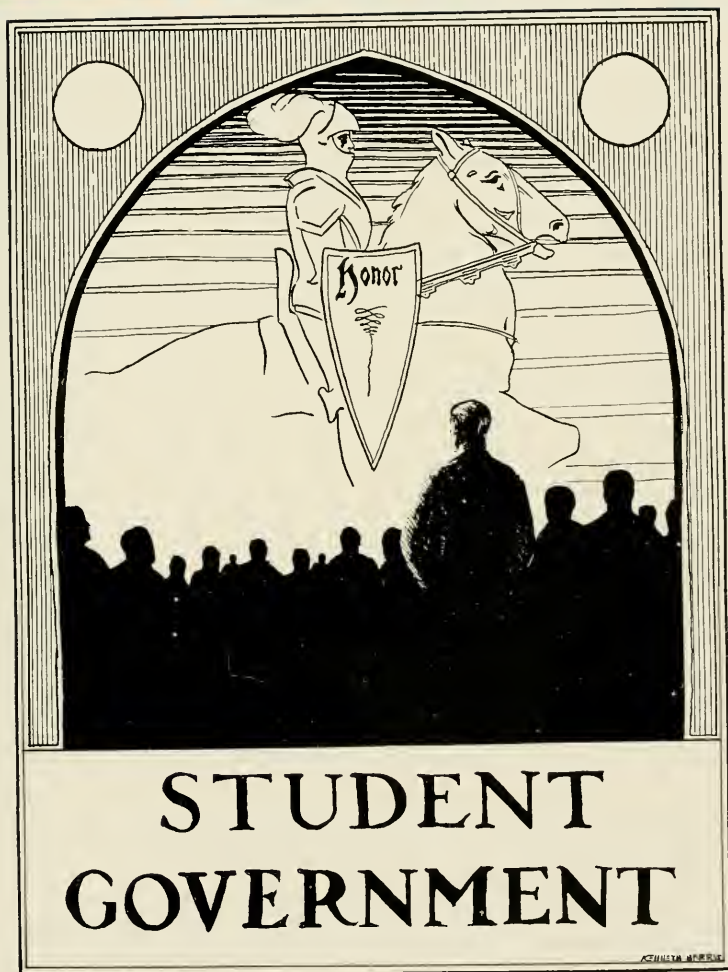

For the encouragement of interest and merit along lines of scholarship, leadership, and literary achievement, a number of honorary fraternities have been organized, membership being offered only to those who have shown distinction along various lines.

A few outstanding social events are landmarks in each collegiate year, at which times the joyful sound of feminine voices is heard upon the walks of the old campus. Junior Speaking, coming in the spring, claims the forefront as the gala event of the year. Homecoming Day brings back to the Hill familiar faces of bygone years. The Sophomore Banquet is a memorable occasion for the members of that class. Commencement marks the arrival of families and sweethearts, a time of welcomes and farewells.

The religious activities of the students are largely through the Y. M. C. A. Well over fifty per cent of the student body regularly attend "Y" vesper services, and considerable interest is shown in the weekly Bible Discussion Groups. A number of students conduct rural Sunday schools near the college, and high schools of the vicinity are visited by deputation teams. Other religious organizations which engage in effective work are a Ministerial Band, a Volunteer Band, and a Christian Endeavor Training Class.

Characteristic of all these student activities, and that which keeps them going, is a spirit of enthusiasm and co-operation, and of devotion to old Davidson.

The Honor System at Davidson

DAVIDSON has many things of which she is justly proud. A tradition and a heritage of chivalry, fine ideals, broad thinking and high morals that have never been surpassed; a fighting spirit that turns many a defeat into a glorious victory, and that takes defeat with uplifted head and a word of praise for the victor; a beautiful campus and athletic field; a faculty of broad and brilliant men; and a student body that has no equal anywhere in the realm of colleges—of all these things Davidson is proud. But ask a man what is the finest thing at Davidson; ask him of what the school is proudest, and he will not say her tradition and heritage; he will not mention the fighting spirit; he will have no word for her campus and her faculty; he will even overlook her student body; he will say, and without hesitation, "Her Honor System."

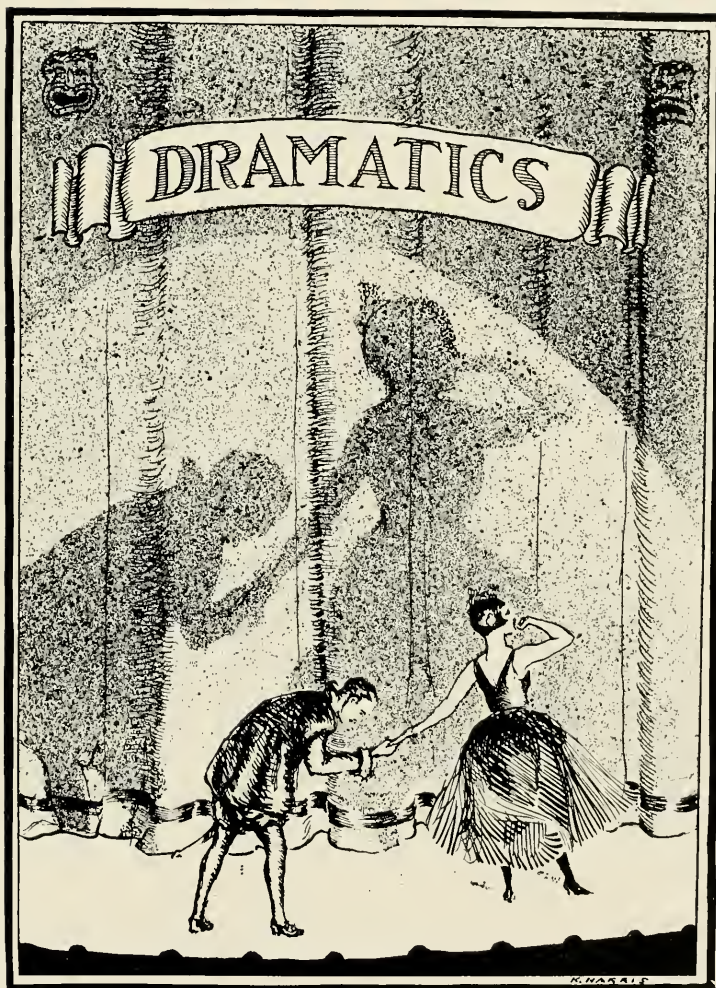

A good Honor System is the prime requisite for a good college. It molds the students together, improving their standard of conduct and thinking; it maintains the high ideals and morals which are the foundation of the institution; it gives the students responsibility and enhances their desire to live cleanly and squarely; in a word, it makes the college what it is. Where the college has already been "made," and has a reputation above reproach, the Honor System improves and helps to maintain this reputation.

Davidson's Honor System has done just that—it has improved and helped to maintain her already excellent reputation. This has been done, of course, through the student body. The student body of a college makes or breaks the college reputation; the Davidson student body, largely through the Honor System, has made Davidson's reputation stand.

When a Davidson professor gives an examination he does not hesitate to leave the room, for he knows the men will not cheat. The faculty did not hesitate to put the seniors on their honor to attend church, for they knew they would attend or turn in the absence. The managers of the student store do not hesitate to take a man's word for the amount of his purchases, for they know he will be honest about it. To the Honor System is due this trust in Davidson men. The Honor System takes a man with but little sense of integrity and tells him that he must be honest if he is to be a Davidson man; it takes a man of the greatest integrity and it says to him, "Your course of honesty is the right course; follow it." So it affects every class of men, improving them in the things that are right and best.

The Davidson Honor System works well-nigh perfectly, for every man is behind it and working for it, striving to make it the best in any college, that the student bodies of the future may profit and be improved by it.

NOW WE HAVE IT

By WONHOOS BINTHAIR

Very peculiar incidents have occurred during and considering the life of yours truly and since the incidents to which I have reference concern things that are greatly concerning some of the other great scientists, I will hereby give brief summaries of said incidents. During the front portion of my existence very little happened other than the advent of my birth and an extremely enlightening education to which I was subjected without the slightest discontent. You may be able to perceive from the above discourse that I have always been extraordinarily peculiar, but that is neither here nor there nor to be considered. Let it suffice that I received the above mentioned education and became one of the leading psychologists that the world has ever known. That is my own idea of the case and must not be passed over without due consideration.

Perhaps it was ill luck that made me choose the profession of psychologist, but then that which I have to say would perhaps never have occurred and the world would still have labored under impressions of certain things that had no grounds whatsoever. It was during my occupation as professor of my chosen work that the thing happened. In my class there was a student who must have been rather weak-hearted, for during one of my daily lectures the said student withered and passed into the great beyond. As the courts held it, the matter was entirely my fault, for I had known the young man was fragile and might have been susceptible to unendurable emotions because of the subject of my lectures. Unwanton disregard for human life amounting to criminal negligence therefore caused one of the greatest scientists the world has ever known to be sentenced to that scientific discovery of the age known as the electric chair. This was unfortunate, but the fact that a well-known planet, Ram, was in close proximity to the earth at the time was an exceedingly lucky thing, for that was the thing that saved this great scientist. A rocket having been invented that was purposed to navigate through ether and thence to this close planet was another advent that tended toward the preservation of my life. They asked my permission to be put in said rocket and hurled off into space. Having nothing else to do at the time and being rather experimental at heart I decided to risk the adventure, so I was consequently placed in the above-mentioned rocket and sent on my journey.

Now, being hurled off into space at the rate of many millions of miles per minute is not a thing to be lightly considered and passed over without due consideration. At first I was under the impression that the experiment had failed and I had become an inhabitant of the spirit world, for the heat was almost unendurable. The heat was unendurable, so, without thinking, I climbed out the porthole of my transportation facility and turned the burning thing loose. This was another extremely fortunate incident of my existence, for, no sooner had I released my grasp from the rocket, than the thing melted from the intense heat caused by too rapid passage through space. But where was I? I floated rather serenely through something that must have been air since I could breathe it, and came to rest on what appeared to be an exceedingly large hot-house. There was glass everywhere and the passage from such intense heat into what appeared to be a rather cold world was decidedly discomfiting. I could feel myself freezing when a rather gruff voice said something to me that was not entirely understandable. My knowledge of languages is immense, but this was a new one on me so I merely looked displeased and said nothing. Whereupon the stranger said nothing, but took me in his arms and carried me to what appeared to be a trap-door leading through the glass roof of this immense hot-house. I saw no need to scramble, for the person who thus carried me was not less than fifteen feet tall and built along the lines of an ocean liner. Besides, I was cold and the close contact with this demon's body gave forth extremely gratifying heat. He carried me down a long flight of stairs into a city with avenues, lanes, peculiar-looking vehicles and every other type of matter that marks the peculiarities of what we call a city. I inquired in at least forty-seven tongues and dialects as to my whereabouts, but the giant did not seem to mind, for he said nothing of it at all. Then he put me down and looked down at me as if I were some peculiar type of animal that he was uncertain of and I looked at him in the same manner, but, during this time, we were walking at a rate that would have soon worn me down had not my feelings made me think that I was much lighter than I had been before I left the earth. At last we reached a house and walked in. This house was much like the ones we are accustomed to on earth, but it was much larger and the occupants seemed to be of the same general build as the giant who had picked me up. They all stared at me and I did the same toward all of them. There were three feminine types of gianthood and about ten masculine types, but in one corner I noticed something that appeared to me to resemble something I had seen before. This being also seemed interested in my entrance, for no sooner had I done so that she hurled herself across the room into my arms, jabbering unascertainable messages into my ear. I kissed her and let it go at that. The other occupants of the room were smiling, but this was no laughing matter with me, so I determined to do what I could about quenching my thirst.

Having thoroughly made up my mind as to obtaining refreshments, I walked content to remain cuddled in my arms, over to the most intelligent-looking giant and pointed to my mouth, pretending to drink, all the time shouting that I wished for some thirst-quenching substance. The result was that the aforementioned giant repeated my words after me and sent one of the young looking beings from the room. Shortly he returned and placed a tub to my lips. It appeared that there was liquid within the tub and that the tub served them for a drinking cup. I let no such ideas bother me, however, and drank a goodly portion of the liquid that I found within. It was nothing else but water such as I have been accustomed to drinking all my life.

Then the whole crowd gathered in a body and began jabbering incoherent words that appeared to be on the subject of me as I ascertained from the constant glances in the direction I had chosen for my own. However, the young being, who appeared to be a rather attractive young lady of the earthy type, did not gather herself with the others, but seemed where she had gotten for some unknown reason. I did not mind in the least.

At last the one who had caused me to get the drink of water came to where the young lady and I were very comfortable on a lounge and began to talk my own language.

"You have dropped in on us from the earth, have you not?" I was extremely surprised at his use of exceedingly good English, so I replied:

"Yes, I left there this morning via rocket, but how the deuce did you find out and where did you pick up the use of my language?"

"That settles the argument then. Your question is natural, considering that you come from such an uncivilized country as the earth, but if you had the intellect of the inhabitants of Ram you would be easily able to understand how simple calculation from one word of your language would enable us to collect knowledge of your tongue to fluency."

You can imagine that that made me feel good and I said so. Whereupon the giant proceeded to explain to me all the things that made Ram superior to my own planet. The extreme cold of the planet I was on had forced the inhabitants to entirely surround the small world with the hot-house I have mentioned. This glass shell contained cities and articles much as our own and was kept at a certain temperature throughout the year. The glass nature of the shell did not prevent light from entering and, as a whole, the country to this master-mind could not be equaled by any other planet. However, he gave me no great need for anxiety, for he claimed that the earth would grow. That was exceedingly gratifying.

"Say, listen," I said. "I grant all you've said and I admit that you're further advanced than the earth as far as science is concerned, but where can you find anything in this dreary place that has a faint resemblance to beauty besides the damsel now reposing in my arms?"

"That is neither here nor there," said he, hedging. "Ram has advanced to such an extent that beauty is no longer needed for comfort."

"Then deliver me from all of it," I replied.

This must have made the giant very angry for, as punishment, he had made an asbestos carrier and placed the young lady and yours truly therein. After that was done we were carried to the outer shell of this wonderful planet and given a swift kick, whereupon I have awakened to recount these experiences as they appeared in my dream.

Football Puzzle and Key

The craze has left us a little crazier than we suspected and we, therefore, consider only the originator of crossword puzzles as the guilty party and the originator of this outburst merely an accessory after the fact. Do not, by any means, solve this puzzle if you have not the inherent desire, for it is in no manner compulsory. Many whole words are left unkeyed, but the definitions should suffice to remove all doubt as to their nature. Read in the order given. Let's go!

9. (Horizontal) Something that is sometimes done to a rug and, incidentally, something that was done to:

17. (Vertical) The "Whoopee girls'" school.

8. (Vertical) Past tense of the word meaning to go in the direction of gravity. This is what we did to:

15. (Horizontal) A denominational college in South Carolina supported by Presbyterians.
2. (Vertical) Past tense of the verb meaning to overthrow. This word has feet, but they are spelled with an "a" instead of a second "e." This is also what we caused to happen to:

12. (Horizontal) A school in Spartanburg, S. C.

13. (Vertical) Past tense of a verb which means to scrap in colloquial terms. We did this to:

11. (Vertical) A university from the capital of Virginia until we defeated them.

3. (Horizontal) This word would be two words if it had another "d," but there was no room for one so we did the best we could. It means the past tense of what is done with a lawnmower, together with a word that means where you fall and when you fall. It also means what was done by us to:

6. (Vertical) A college that recently added Rhyme to its name.

9. (Vertical) After you beat the rug it is what this word means. This, sad to say, is what happened to us:

14. (Horizontal) Preposition of agency;

5. (Vertical) Another of our opponents from South Carolina.

7. (Horizontal) Past tense of what you do not have to do to an already tied tie. This is how the game with:

4. (Vertical) A state college in North Carolina came out.

3. (Vertical) Past tense of the word "M." stands for in M.A. We did this to:

18. (Horizontal) The Tiger College of South Carolina.

16. (Vertical) Past tense of the verb that comes after to in the expression "To have and —."

We did this for three quarters to:

10. (Vertical) A certain university. We allowed them six points too many in the final period.

1. (Horizontal) The five letters ending with the letter before the last may be called the ounce of prevention used to do this to:

1. (Vertical) A college that recently changed its name.

A new chapter has been written in the history of Columbia Seminary. All of the controlling Synods have decided for its removal to Atlanta. Already a beautiful site of forty acres has been donated and more than $300,000 raised in Atlanta and vicinity alone. A campaign will be put on in the Synod of Georgia in April to add $250,000 to the endowment fund. The entire outlook for the Seminary is bright.

The session will open as usual in Columbia, on Wednesday, September —, at 5 P.M. All prospective students should write to the President.

Are You Looking Into the Future?

WHEN PLANNING YOUR FUTURE it is tremendously important that you carefully consider what Life Insurance has to offer.

OBLIGATION is one of the things that always comes with the much-to-be-desired sheepskin. If not direct and personal financial obligation, then most surely obligation to the good old Dad who "saw you through." A Pilot Life contract will guarantee your obligations, give you independence, and prove a wonderful investment. See a representative of the Pilot Life, he will explain the details gladly and without obligating you in any way.

A Cross-Word Proposal

Attractive individual,

My ardor you inspire,

I'll never be perfidious

To that dynamic fire,

So let me state authentic'ly

That you I do desire

And that I do most frantic'ly

Wish you were somewhat nigher.

Now secret animosity

Should never be allowed

Since it hinders great velocity

In working through a crowd:

So, in this aggregation,

If you say that I'm endowed

With your animus negation,

My love won't be avowed.

But please don't state loquaciously

That such is your intent;

Nor add to it quite graciously,

"No harm at all is meant,"

For that would not be sensible,

And would not gain assent.

Your love is indispensable;

If brought—don't have it sent.

I've overwhelmed convention

By writing what you've read,

But still it's my intention

That you and I be wed.

CLOTHES FOR COLLEGE MEN

AND MEN WHO LIKE COLLEGE
TYPE CLOTHES

The College man has always stood for clothes which express quality—

—clothes which stamp one as being well-dressed without being "dressed up."

No other class of men has sensed more completely the true function of clothes—not the "making" of a man, but a "background" for his personality.

The Tate-Brown College models shown here possess that casual air of ease and comfort and that master touch of design and construction which definitely identifies them as authentically college.

"Hand-tailored" in cassimeres, worsteds, stripes and overplaids in a variety of patterns and colors which offers you a wide selection.

I sat myself right down and thought
One day, long, long ago
And wondered what my life had wrought
And just where it would go;
And when my thoughts had run their course,
I found these things were true:
My life had been of not much force,
But it was not quite thru.
I had so far not found my queen
For just one single cause;
In all my life I'd never seen
A girl to fit my laws.
I'd set my ideal love on high
And looked for that one girl,
So I had never come quite nigh
To being set awlirl.
So now I've set myself a law
By which I must abide,
Doves may coo and crows may caw
And live by time and tide,

EXPLAINING WHAT TO DO. NOTE: DON'T DO IT

A recent journal came out with the statement that there was once an Irishman named Pat and another person of the same nationality named Mike.

After the above statement contained in the mentioned journal there followed a bit of humor that was enacted by the above-named actors and a bit of dialogue by the same persons, but that part of what was written has been forgotten and the readers of this column have doubtless heard it before so we will take no space to relate it here.

An editor of a rather widely known college annual came out recently with the statement that his publication was in need of fifteen pages of filler material and the editor of The June Smile agreed with him that under no circumstances should those pages be left vacant.

Having made such an argument, it became necessary that copy be found to place in the columns of said annual and that necessity, like all others, being the mother of invention, in its prevailing use, the following facts and other bunk has been accumulated according to the nature of this paper as well as some others that might be mentioned but won't be.

It has recently been stated by one of the most eminent physicians (name forbidden) that onions are a most potent fruit.

He goes so far as to state that they have even more power than apples in keeping men of the medical profession from one's door.

* * *

It may be stated in the way of the Muse with the apples as follows:

An onion a day

Keeps the doctor away.

That, however, is merely half the facts, for there is more needed to explain, to the fullest extent, the medicinal qualities of this most fragrant vegetable—we continue with our Muse:

'Tis sad but true

It keeps others away too.

That highly useful medicine, listerine, must drop to second place when confronted with the oils and juices contained in this product of the gardener's art.

It is claimed by the manufacturers of the above liquid that their product will overcome the forces of the strong herb, but that statement is without foundation whatever, and tests have proven that the reverse is the correct acknowledgment of verified facts.

Burbank, the noted farmer, is about to perfect an invention along his own lines and this invention, if successful, should equal the Copernican revolution of the universe.

The invention will not only mean greater health through a larger use of the most potent of vegetables, but it will also aid Cupid to a greater extent.

* * *

Up to the time of this writing there has never been an account of an old maid becoming so hopeless as to eat onions for breakfast, so the statement that Cupid would be aided by this wondrous invention takes into record merely the young and lissom creatures who have never passed that age of forgetful carelessness.

* * *

It is noted that love is blind, but that emotion has never been regarded as having a permanent cold so that certain failings along the onion line pass unnoticed in its presence.

* * *

The invention spoken of is merely a system of planting the scented herb's seed in perfumed magic mud and watering it entirely and only with rose water mixed with a certain percentage of bath salts for the purpose of fertilizer.

mented on a very large plain with the unsocial herb and a brief sketch of his results should here be stated.

* * *

The plain he experimented on may be found somewhere in the western part of Nebraska.

* * *

In that part of these United States geographers will remember that there are arid plots containing no water whatsoever and where practical agriculture is very rare, not to say impossible.

* * *

Our great farmer was, however, never greatly concerned with practical gardening for the simple reason that he confined his work to the experimental line.

* * *

He has just recently given his latest experimental results to the world, and we will venture to state authentically that his great work was entirely successful and very important.

* * *

First, Mr. Burbank found for his laboratory the most arid desert obtainable and there planted the seeds of his experiment.

First the potato seed was given its place in the earth and the onion was laid to rest close beside.

* * *

The seeds being planted, our great benefactor calmly sat himself down and awaited results which were not long in coming; for in the space of time required for the above plants to take root and flourish they did just that and poked their weary heads through the crackling sands of the desert in the hope of meeting the fiery sun.

* * *

The wondrous part of this feat is the fact that no methods of irrigation, including the watering pot, were used in its accomplishment.

* * *

When questioned as to the why of what happened the planter gave answer.

But it had best be stated why the results were so vastly important and that is very simple.

* * *

For the first time in the history of the world, and the onion, a potato and an onion had been made to grow side by side and without moisture or other means of ventilation.

The reason, as stated by the author of the experiment, was merely this: The onion had given off its aroma as usual and it had just as usually entered the nearest eyes possible, those of the potato, this, of course, and naturally, brought forth, as usual, tears from the said eyes and on the moisture from these tears both plants were enabled to live quite peacefully in very dry surroundings and with no moisture whatever from the outside.

Family trees, like totem poles, are very needed instruments in the machinery of our social life and there should never be any discrepancy in the use thereof.

The great scientist, Darwin, had a very wonderful family tree and the history of his illustrious family has been written of and spoken of on various occasions though not always with the respect due the great historian.

We call the man a historian because it was he alone who compiled the complete tree of his family and that is very wonderful history, though he admits, for some reason, that there is one link missing in his calculations.

* * *

Why he should admit that there is something missing is more than the casual reader is able to understand, for the simple reason that in the record given of his tree there seems to be nothing whatever missing between the present generation and the remotest ancestor he names.

The one discrepancy that may be noted in the greatest work of the noted scientist is the fact that he not only gives his own family tree but very calmly announces that said tree is to all purposes the exact likeness of all the family trees that may be calculated and that all members of the human race have the same ancestors with which he was blessed.

* * *

It may be quite true that all the members of the human race may quite calmly say that at least two of their ancestors made a trip on the ark and to add that one of their ancestors must undoubtedly have been Noah as well as Adam.

* * *

Such statements are facts as far as they go, but in many cases there is no verification of the fact that the addition made necessary follows from what was stated before, for the simple fact that Noah and his family were not the only living objects that made the trip with Captain Noah.

Darwin, however, does not stop with the ark nor even with Adam, but traces his line of descendancy to such farther distances as to cause blushes of shame to appear on the faces of his own descendants.

* * *

The family tree formulated by Darwin has been much discussed as to its verification in circles from the old sewing one back home to the most high and noble diplomatical ones, but why such an unimportant thing should be discussed is more than we can see at this writing.

* * *

If one man wishes to state that he is quite certain some object, in a very ancient time, is his forbear there is no need for the world to spring to his side and say "Never!"

* * *

It is true that the great scientist did not stop by saying that the ancestor he mentioned was his own ancestor, but added that he was also some kin to each and every inhabitant of the known world, but that is merely the opinion of one man and he a man admitting very poor relations in ancient times.

It is our opinion that, to avoid such occurrences of great import in the future, every family should keep an accurate and verified statment of its family tree, from the present on to the far distant future, and that each generation have its own part of the tree signed by a notary public, so that no argument regarding its correctness may be brought forward when future Darwins make known their beliefs regarding their ancestors.

If the family of the noted scientist had kept such an accurate record there would probably have been no great disturbance made at its publication, and it would be very unlikely that what was stated as to the family trees of all native inhabitants of the earth being similar would ever have been noticed, because records would then have shown that the statement was or was not true and there would have been no need for question.

* * *

After Darwin there came another glutton for the punishment of discovering worthy or otherwise ancestors and his record of the tree traces the family back to the very beginning of things, though there was nothing at that point at all.

The gentleman spoken of above is none other than H. G. Wells, who wrote his family tree under the name of the "Outline of History."

In general this later volume of family and world history relates that what its author says must undoubtedly be true, but there is still no verification by any notary public whatever, so the argument continues with even greater force because of the fact that the two trees may be compared and neither has been verified more than the other.

* * *

To come to the conclusion of this matter there is only one thing to say and that is that fact that better records should be kept in the future and that every family have its own family tree or totem pole to keep the accounts separate and make them capable of verification.

Society is a great institution founded on the principles that men are not born free and equal and neither are women.

* * *

Each inhabitant of the world has his own and separate part in the generalities of the times and that place under the sun is not determined by how he was born, but by how he does certain things that must necessarily be done.

For examples along this line it would be quite simple to state that slapping females on the back may quite ordinarily be an inherited characteristic, but is a thing that makes man who does the deed a very rude person and thus places him in one phase of the world's society without question to either the female slapped nor the male slapper.

Another thing that will quite quickly place persons of the male distinction in disreputable society is that very simple thing of not preventing the unwarranted disease that may be overcome very easily by the mere use of listerine.

* * *

The disease referred to above is that most repugnant disease commonly called dandruff and which flourishes in the growth adorning some, but not all, human and otherwise, heads.

* * *

To allow one's self to become possessed of this disease is nothing but a direct breach of all the social laws and is only to be compared with the very obscene act of ordering chicken salad twice or leaving her standing in the middle of the floor.

Pickles are, to some, the most delicious food edible, but there is that in social law which says they must be eaten just so and that law of society has and will always cause a very decided decrease in the sale of pickles, for the simple fact that eating just one small pickle may cause the eater to drop very noticeably in the social scale.

* * *

One must know everything that is to be done in any circumstance and it is very hard to think quickly when such a thing happens as the chicken flying off one's plate into one's lap.

When in the above circumstance the natural thing to do is to say what is thought, but that is very bad manners at any time and the things thought under such circumstances are not generally worthy of being voiced aloud even at a stag dinner or in the home.

* * *

It is usually given that the rule for public society may be given under the rule that what is done in one's own home should never be done in another's.

* * *

The above rule is always spoken in reverse by the host or hostess, but "feeling at home" in any surroundings is the zenith of bad manners and is considered as very rude.

The really only safe rule to abide by is to never enter any phase of society whatever except that of yourself and under no circumstances to take guinea pigs or lizards to an opera even if they are your only friends.
